DOWN IN DIXIE THE PRINCE HAD A WARM RECEPTION

Declares That in All Europe There Is Not Another Battlefield to Compare With Chattanooga.

MEMENTO OF TRIP INCLUDED SOME KENTUCKY SUNSHINE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 2.—Prince Henry of Prussia went up Lookout mountain today and after viewing the ground where the union and confederate armies met in conflict and hearing afresh the story of the battles resumed his journey to the north and west.

Leaving Chattanooga his train ran through a corner of Alabama and then turning to the north hurried across Tennessee, with a short stop at Nashville; through Kentucky, with brief stays at Louisville and Bowling Green, and up into Indiana to another brief halt at Indianapolis. At Indianapolis the course was changed to the westward again and his train tonight is on the reach for St. Louis.

Negroes Showed Great Curiosity.

Prince Henry's reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to hear them sing at Nashville and was greatly pleased at the experience. There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people presented the prince with a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis.

At every station along the route people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans, as well, and at several points after they had seen and cheered the prince the people called for the admiral. Brief though it was Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour and as he was leaving Nashville he said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindliest manner and I very deeply appreciate it. I wish they might all know how thankful I am."

Hoodlums Woke the Prince Up.

Guided by a pilot engine the royal special made a rapid run from Cincinnati to Chattanooga. Tired from his exertions of the day the prince retired after leaving Cincinnati. At Somerset several young men ran up to his car and beating on the windows of his apartments familiarly called upon him to appear. He did not know the cause of the disturbance, but said when he arose that he would have shown himself if he had been dressed.

It was 5 o'clock when the special pulled into the station at Chattanooga and the local reception committee, headed by Newell Sanders and accompanied by Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and Gen. H. V. Boynton came forward formally to greet the prince. There was a great throng in and about the depot, and it broke into hearty cheers when the Prince appeared and saluted the crowd.

The Visit to Lookout Mountain.

He and his party were taken by special electric train to the inclined railway that climbs the rugged face of Lookout mountain. The morning was fairly clear when the party began the ascent and a splendid panoramic view quickly came into vision. As the prince reached the crest of the mountain, the sun broke through the grayish clouds and for a short time the view was excellent.

Gen. Boynton, who participated in the Chattanooga operations with Sherman's army, and is chairman of the Chickamauga National Park association, accompanied the prince down along the ridge of the mountain and briefly related the story of the campaign. He pointed off to the Cumberland mountains beyond which Rosecrans began the movement, traced out the feint to deceive Bragg, brought it up to the command of Grant, and then graphically told the story of Chickamauga and the assaults on Missionary ridge and Lookout mountain.

Impressed by Battlefield.

Prince Henry followed the recital with the keenest interest and with map before him studied out the strategy and progress of the fight. He asked numerous questions, and by his direction his aid, Lt. Commander von Egidy noted down figures as to the number of men engaged, the losses on either side and other information as to the battles and campaign. As Prince Henry stood at Rock Point and looked across the valley of the Tennessee, he exclaimed: "This is magnificant. There is nothing in all Europe that is finer. I have never seen such a battlefield."

While the party was at Rock Point, a snow squall came up and the picture changed in a moment. Dark clouds of the storm rolled in around the peaks, the sky blackened and snow began falling. Through the storm the recital went on and the young prince and the gray-haired veteran, who talked of a day nearly 40 years gone, and the uniformed staff standing about, made an impressive group.

Got Mad at a Photographer.

The party was photographed at the peak, and one of the photographers, a local man, was sharply rebuked by the prince. The photographer did not like the way the prince stood and in rather loud tone repeatedly asked him to change. The prince changed position several times, but finally said:

"I have changed five times, I think. You will take me right here if you care to. You have had several photographs already."

Later the prince told one of the president's delegates that he was very sorry he had shown any spirit, but he was assured that he had ample cause to be annoyed, and that there was no reason for either regret or apology.

The prince returned to the city by the electric line and then under the guard of mounted police took a carriage for a short drive.

Boynton and Evans Entertained.

He returned to the depot at 10 o'clock, where the local committee, with Newell Sanders as spokesman, presented him with a silver-bound album, the gift of citizens. The outer cover of the album bore a finely executed relief model in silver showing the battlefields. The prince in accepting it said:

"I thank you very much for this beautiful souvenir. I shall keep it always as a remembrance of my day here with you in this interesting historic locality. Please express my thanks to the citizens."

The prince invited Gen. Boynton and Commissioner Evans to accompany him to Nashville and they were his guests at luncheon. At the table the prince again expressed his pleasure at having seen Lookout mountain and the battlefields, and thanked Gen. Boynton for his description of the campaigns.

Von Grumme Lost His Sword.

At Chattanooga Lieut. Commander von Grumme lost his small sword. It is a handsome weapon and the local police were asked to search for it. It is thought that it was left somewhere by accident rather than it had been stolen.

Prince Henry addressed a telegram to Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, accepting an invitation to breakfast with them at their home in New York on Saturday next.

The route through the Cumberland mountains offered some stretches of pretty scenery. The streams were high and rapid and filled the gorges below the train. The prince had a day of sight-seeing and when not otherwise engaged kept up an animated line of questions and comment with Admiral Evans and those around him. The reception the prince got at Bowling Green pleased him fully as much as the larger ones.

Hospitality of a Kentucky Judge.

Judge Simms, a venerable citizen, mounted the rear platform of the Columbia and in the name of Kentucky presented the prince with some fine old peach brandy and some corn whisky. The prince gravely accepted the gift and faithfully promised the judge that he would drink some of it the first time he got thirsty. It was a sentiment that pleased the judge and his fellow citizens and they cheered enthusiastically as the prince from the moving train waved them farewell.

During the 15-minute stop at Nashville the prince's desire to hear some of the old plantation songs of the south was gratified, the negro jubilee singers from Fisk university sinking three or four tuneful melodies, to the manifest enjoyment of the prince.

Revival Songs Puzzled Him.

One of the singers was a member of the organization when it made a tour of Europe some years ago, and, having been told this, Prince Henry, after the first song, reached over and shook hands with her, making reference to the visit to Berlin.

During the rendition of the songs his highness asked Gov. McMillin what their purport was.

"They are revival songs," replied the governor.

"What are revival songs?" queried the prince, and the governor entered into a few explanatory remarks concerning the old-time negro and his picturesque religious faith and customs.

A large committee of distinguished citizens, state, city and county officials, headed by Gov. McMillin and Mayor Head, was on hand at Nashville to formally welcome the visitor.

Reminder of Old Hickory.

Mayor Head delivered a welcoming speech, during which he presented a silver-mounted cane cut from "The Hermitage," Andrew Jackson's old home. On the top of the handle is engraved a front

Citizens of Marshall Are Forced to Fly in the Night.

SEVEN LIVES ARE KNOWN TO BE LOST

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 2.—Western North Carolina since Thursday night has been in the throes of the worst flood in the history of the state. So far at least seven lives are known to have been lost in the raging torrents, into which every river and stream has developed.

The greatest damage has been done in the vicinity of Asheville. That city is almost entirely isolated from the world, save for one feeble telegraph wire. Trains have all ceased, and none has been run since the heavy downpour of Thursday, when the rivers rose ten feet in half as many hours. The French Broad tonight is a roaring torrent, on the flood of which, wreckage of houses is jammed like so much driftwood. At Marshall the flood of Thursday night has been a terrific disaster. There five lives are known to have been lost, and it is feared many others have succumbed to the flood.

Marshall is a scene of ruin and disorder, and it is feared that west of that town great havoc has been created. The river, suddenly rising in the night, leaped the

OCEAN STEAMER IS THIRTY HOURS BEHIND ITS TIME

The Etruria Is Overdue and Has Not Been Heard of at Queenstown.

SAILED FROM NEW YORK

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, March 2.—No news has yet been received of the Cunard line steamer Etruria. She is now 30 hours overdue at Queenstown.

The Etruria, Capt. Thomas Stevens, left New York February 22 for Queenstown and Liverpool. According to the steamer's best eastward record she was due to arrive at Queenstown at 10:12 p. m. February 28.

The Cunard line steamer Umbria, which arrived at New York Sunday from Queenstown, reports having comunicated with the Etruria by the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy February 26 in latitude 44.2 north, longitude 41.40 west.

PITTSBURGHER'S BODY FOUND

Private in United States Marine Corps Was Drowned Near Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—August Ritter of Pittsburgh, private in the United States marine corps at League Island navy yard, was found drowned today in the lake at League Island park. He had been missing since November 12 last. On that night he was seen going toward the navy yard somewhat under the influence of liquor and is supposed to have fallen into the lake.

The lake having been frozen nearly all winter until recently accounts for his body not being found until today. Ritter enlisted about two years ago. He was about 37 years old and was considered a good soldier.

FLOOD CARRIES DEATH AND WOE DOWN THE RIVER

Hundreds of Families Homeless and Thousands of Men Idle.

TWO MEN DROWNED; FIANCEE MOURNS ONE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WHEELING, W. VA., March 2.—Wheeling tonight is in the grasp of the worst flood it has experienced since that of 1884, with but one exception. The maximum stage was reached at 6 o'clock this evening—43 feet 3 inches—and the decline is expected to begin about midnight. In Wheeling, Bellaire, Martins Ferry and Bridgeport scores of factories have been entered by the raging waters, fires extinguished and 20,000 men placed on the list of involuntary idleness that will continue until Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Wheeling island is two-thirds covered by the water tonight and fully 700 families are occupying the upper floors of their homes. South Wheeling and Benwood were hit fully as hard.

Three Boys Injured.

Owing to the slow advance of the flood tide, however, the people were enabled to move their belongings.

This afternoon North Wheeling boys built a fire on the river bank, and in the debris used as fuel was among other things a partially filled can of nitro-glycerine which exploded with a tremendous report. Three of the boys were seriously injured, but will recover. They are Harry Dean, Charles Lytle and Ray Herbert.

Another half-filled can of nitro-glycerine was kicked around in the gutter in front of the Hotel Windsor by boys until an oil man discovered the character of its contents. Then there was a scattering of the population in all directions. The police were called and removed the can.

Two Men Drowned.

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., March 2.—(Special.)—Frank Tyree of Catlettsburg, Ky., and Louis Schmitt of Portsmouth, O., were drowned in the Big Sandy yesterday near Pikeville. Tyree and Schmitt, in company with Edward Burk, another well-known traveling man of Ceredo, W. Va., left Pikeville in a skiff, leaving their teams there owing to the high water. Their little craft was crowded in some tree branches and it upset. Instantly Tyree and Schmitt sank to their death, but Burk swam 40 yards to a sawlog and climbing on this floated five miles before he was rescued. Tyree had about $500 in collections he had made upon his person and Schmitt had several hundred. Neither of the bodies have been recovered.

Schmitt was to have been married to a daughter of Capt. Freeze of Louisa, inside of a month and it was to spend Sunday with his intended bride that caused him to venture with the other salesmen out on the turbulent Big Sandy, which was higher than it had been for 20 years.

Towns Under Water.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., March 2.—(Special.)—At 6 o'clock this evening the Ohio river was 49.8 feet here and continues to rise at the rate of one inch an hour. But little damage has resulted here.

RECEDING WATER LEAVES TRAIL OF FILTH AND MUD

Devastating Flood Subsides and Submerged Sections of Both Cities Are Busy Cleaning.

LOSS WILL PROBABLY TOTAL UP TO $1,250,000

The great flood of Friday and Saturday will be almost a thing of the past today. Starting early yesterday morning, and lasting all day and last night, the surging waters slowly subsided, as though reluctant to release the grip they had on the land. Disregarding the properties of metaphor, it might be said that like the Arabs, the flood folded its tents and silently stole away.

The high point of the rising waters was reached on Saturday night, and after a few hours of standstill, the torrents began gradually falling, bit by bit, here and there, giving up short stretches of submerged street. Last night most of the flooded districts were freed from water. The fall in 24 hours between 8 o'clock Saturday night and 8 o'clock last night was just about four feet.

Street car traffic, which had been seriously retarded, was renewed on all save two divisions of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Electric light connections, which had been put out of commission, were very generally repaired. Officials of the Philadelphia Company announce that today will see the complete repair of every part of their interests affected by the water.

Streets Are Muddy.

With the fall of the waters, the streets have been left in a most deplorably dirty condition. A thick coating of slimy silt and mud covers everything. From it a most disagreeable odor of decaying matter arises, which was very offensive yesterday afternoon in the glare of the sun. Everywhere bits of lumber, rubbish and wreckage of all kinds lies about the once flooded streets, giving a most desolate cast to everything.

Down in the Point district huge cakes of ice were washed up from the Allegheny river almost to Penn avenue. In the warm afternoon sun these frigid indications of cold weather seemed incongruous. The children, who inhabit that district, however, were having huge fun with these relics of the flood, pushing them about, jumping from one to the other and disporting themselves generally with the happy abandon of childhood.

First Floors Reoccupied.

In most of the flooded districts the residents were able yesterday to return to the first floors of their homes. Those who had been fortunate enough to move their household goods, could congratulate themselves on having nothing to do but clean off the coating of mud from walls and floor, and get new wall paper. Others less fortunate contemplated the ruin of carpets and serious damage to furniture.

In almost every house, the floors were scrubbed, and then every available fire was started to dry out as much as possible, the water-soaked walls and floors. The thrifty housewife busied herself making her desolate home take semblance of order again, and forgot her troubles, and incidentally the observance of Sunday, in her womanly occupation.

Cellars Still Full.

While in most of the stricken districts the water has subsided from the first floors, all cellars are still full. The slow fall of the streams is not sufficient to draw out much of this accumulation, which will have to be pumped or carried out. Men, who make their living by cleaning and whitewashing, will reap a rich harvest within the next few weeks repairing the damage done to the lower parts of houses.

Practically the only districts not yet freed from the grasp of the waters, are about the lower part of Penn avenue, in Pittsburgh, and the lower end of Allegheny, toward Woods Run. Here the muddy, filthy back water lies sluggishly in the streets, and residents are still compelled to go about in skiffs.

Mills Prepare to Start.

Throughout the manufactories of the two cities yesterday all was activity. As rapidly as the water fell gangs of men were put to work removing debris, cleaning up, and making repairs to machinery. In some of the less-affected parts, mills were enabled to start up last night, and practically all will resume operations today. The owners of these establishments have been unable to make any thing like an accurate estimate of the damage they have suffered. Many mills had finished stock stored in places which were reached by the rising waters before any of it could be removed. In others, valuable machinery soaked for more than 24 hours in the filthy waters. It will take many hours of hard work to make these necessary adjuncts to manufacturing fit for use, and it is feared that some will be ruined completely.

Damage About $1,250,000.

Those mills most affected will suffer heavily in the time lost in turning out finished product, for just now many establishments are working 24 hours a day to keep up with their orders. Altogether it is safe to put the estimate of loss well into the hundreds of thousands.

It is practically an impossibility to estimate accurately the total amount of loss and damage. A conservative figure is $1,250,000. This sum is figured on a basis of mills, business houses, private dwellings, theaters, public service corporations, in fact every thing affected by the flood. Hardly an estimate is less than $1,000,000, and they run from that to $2,000,000.

Workmen Suffered.

Almost 70,000 workmen lost from 24 to 36 hours' work. Many of them suffered losses in their homes as well, and they think it hard that their means of livelihood should be taken away from them just when they need it to repair the damage to their dwellings.

The thousands of men who earn their money doing odd jobs, working a day here and there, were doing a rushing business yesterday and last night. No man had any trouble finding work, provided he was willing to get down on his hands and knees and scrub, or wheel a barrow load of rubbish away. Men to operate hand pumps were also in great demand to help cut off the more than sufficient water supply.

Railroads Again Running.

The railroads about the city are practically running as usual this morning, with the exception of the Baltimore & Ohio, and the trouble there is not local. The falling waters yesterday gradually left the tracks exposed, and preparations were made at once to put them into immediate shape for operation again. There was no special damage done to the railroads other than the delay in freight and the washing out of small pieces of road bed. Passengers were inconvenienced on the Pittsburgh & Western and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie roads, because these lines were compelled for a day or two to use other stations.

Traffic by wagon from Pittsburgh to Allegheny was suspended yesterday when street cars again started up. The drivers did a great business, many making as much in 24 hours as they would ordinarily collect in a month's hard work.

A Short Harvest.

They were much chagrined yesterday when the street cars started, and some clung to the hope of drumming up trade still, but with most indifferent success. Half a dozen of these fellows were arrested by the police Saturday night for making trouble in the crowds about Sixth and Liberty streets by refusing to obey orders and preserve a line of vehicles. They were given hearings by Police Magistrate Bernard McKenna yesterday morning and after a severe reprimand were allowed to go. Frank Rogers, who tried to snatch a pocketbook from a woman in the crowd in Sixth street Saturday night and was caught by Policeman J. C. Taney, was not so fortunate. He was sent to the workhouse for 30 days by the same magistrate.

Some Escaped Fines.

Over in Allegheny the police had some little trouble over the flood. A few drunks made a fuss about the Ft. Wayne station, where the wagons were loading and unloading their passengers. They were arrested, but at the hearings yesterday morning before Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen most of them told pitiful tales of homes ruined and washed out as an excuse for their overload of spirits and all were discharged.

It seemed that the first successful excuse of that kind must have penetrated to the cell department of the police station, for nearly every drunk or disorderly who came out tried it on the magistrate, and with success.

John Dennis, Catherine Delaney and Jacob Duesser of No. 1427 Juniata street, Allegheny, were not so fortunate. Their house was flooded, the entire first floor being inundated.

Defied the Elements.

The party gathered in an upper floor, and, with a supply of liquor, prepared to enjoy themselves in spite of the unfavorable attitude of the elements. Before long they were making night hideous to such an extent that the police heard the noise squares away on dry land. Finally a party of officers felt impelled to investigate, and procuring a boat they rowed in the direction of the sound. When they discovered the cause of the uproar, which was keeping the neighborhood awake, they took the merrymakers in the boat and lodged them in the police station. They were fined $5 each by the magistrate.

Theaters Will Be Open.

The downtown theaters, which were affected by the flood, will all be in shape for performances this evening. At the Alvin theater Saturday night in spite of some eight rows being inundated a few hardy people sat through the performance, and the actors did their parts. Men were working like beavers in both the Alvin and Duquesne theaters yesterday afternoon and last night, getting things in shape again for this evening. It was stated at both houses that the usual Monday night performance would be given. In the Alvin theater the water had not subsided sufficiently at 1:30 to allow a rehearsal of "The Crisis," which has been planned. However, by evening it had cleared away sufficiently, and Mr. Hackett's new play was rehearsed successfully.

Stores Cleaning Up.

In all the stores which suffered by the flood, men were working to have things in shape for opening the first thing this morning. Pumps of all kinds, from the most improved steam contrivance to old-fashioned hand pumps and siphons were in use. Streams of water poured out from pipes, barrels and all sorts of improvised things which would carry the flow across the sidewalk and into the gutters.

That Sunday is a day of rest was never more demonstrated than yesterday. Thousands and thousands of people trooped about the streets, gazing with idle curiosity at the damage wrought by the flood and at the still rushing waters of the streams. Along Water street a constant stream of people both ways jostled each other all the afternoon. They did not seem to mind the mud, and passed many jestine remarks. It was simply the usual good-natured, sightseeing crowd.

Watched Receding Water.

All over the flooded districts the same conditions prevailed. Throughout that part of Allegheny along the river front the people strolled from street to street, standing at the edge of the water, watching the incidents constantly taking place at these points. In West Robinson street near Canal, a big crowd stood for hours watching a number of skiffs which were plying between the still submerged houses and the dry land. Each skiff had an oarsman and two or three attendants who waited at the landing place to lift the occupants safely to shore. A slip and consequent wet foot was enough to bring a shout of merriment from the watchers who enjoyed themselves hugely. Many people drove about in light runabouts from place to place, stopping to gaze at the devastation wrought in such a short time.

Crowds on Bridges.

On the bridges big crowds paraded all day. It was almost impossible to walk on the footways of the Sixth street bridge at all during the afternoon, and the other bridges were almost as crowded. The street cars, in spite of their resumption of traffic, did not do a rushing business. It was a pleasant afternoon, with plenty to see, and the general public took advantage of it.

The stories of the magnitude of the inundation plainly attracted many people from out of the city, people who were not familiar with the intricacies of the streets. These were easily detected. The Pittsburgher or Alleghenian knew just where to go to look at some particular spot where unusual damage had been done. The outsider inquired the way, and once there stood and gaped about.

Every car from any of the suburbs and

East Liberty came into the city loaded to its utmost capacity with sightseers. As soon as the lower city was reached almost every passenger took his or her way to the river with intent to see everything possible.

People stood about and pointed to the dark stripe along side walls of buildings, marking the height of the stream, and commented upon loss and inconvenience. Many stood upon the bridges gazing into the swiftly flowing stream, watching the bobbing pieces of debris as they were whirled along. A walk through this idle, happy crowd was well worth the taking, without the attendant scenes, which even a casual look showed as remarkable.

Much Coal to Go Out.

The rivermen expect to be able to take advantage of the flood on Wednesday, when they think the river will have reached a safe boating stage. About 5,000,000 bushels will be sent out if their anticipations of a good stage are realized. Many of the steamers are now fighting their way upstream with empty tows and are expected here tonight and tomorrow. Others will not be able to get here before Thursday.

The river stages are not taken hourly when all of the streams are falling, as was the case yesterday. A 8 a. m. a stage of 30 feet was indicated by the official marks on the Monongahela wharf at Smithfield street, and at 6 p. m. the same gauge showed 27 feet, a fall of 3 feet since the 8 a. m. reading, and an average fall of about 3 inches per hour during the day. This was a total fall of 5 feet 4 inches from the maximum stage of 32 feet 4 inches Saturday evening at 6 o'clock.

Fell Two Inches an Hour.

The gauge at Davis island dam at 8 a. m. yesterday registered 29 feet; at noon, 28 feet; at 6 p. m., 26 feet 9 inches, and at 8 p. m., 26 feet 8 inches, or a total fall in 12 hours of 2 feet 9 inches. At the last report the Ohio was falling at the rate of 2 inches every hour. The waters are falling slowly on account of the large body of water in the lower rivers, but the indications are that the fall will be more rapid today.

The water "famine" that existed on the South Side, despite the inordinate quantities in the river, was relieved last night at 8 o'clock. As soon as the flood subsided the Monongahela Water Company started the pumps that had been submerged and at 8 p. m. the rising main began to pour a flood into the reservoir. Miles Humphries, chief engineer of the Bureau of fire, was relieved of his anxiety. He had admitted the day before that with the water shut off from the South Side mains a large fire would be hard to cope with.

Mud, Mud, Everywhere.

Although Penn avenue was clear of water and the Southern Traction Company's cars were running on the old route abandoned on Saturday, also although over on Duquesne way places impassable the day before held nothing but a deposit of mud to show that they had been overflowed, the cellars in Duquesne way and Water street were still full of water. Farther back from the Allegheny river, between Penn avenue and Duquesne way, steam pumps were at work getting the flood water from the cellars of schoolhouses, engine houses and manufacturing establishments. In Ninth street crowds of boys competed with each other for the patronage of pedestrians who desired to reach the bridge dry shod. One crowd operated a flatboat, charging 5 cents for ferriage over 30 yards of water, while the others had rigged up a foot-bridge across an alley, where the backwater was narrowest. They charged a cent for passage and engaged in fights with grown men, who did not know the boys had brought the planks themselves and thought it was only a scheme of extortion.

A big storage house in Duquesne way was still not to be reached except by skiffs, and the water came half way up the gates of the exposition grounds. Cakes of foot-thick ice were scattered along Second street, and employes of the city bureau of highways and sewers were chopping them up and carting them away.

The Blockhouse Surrounded.

Standing in a pond of water the old block house looked upon the same flood scenes it has often viewed before, in its more than a century-old existence. Boys paddled near it on improvised rafts, and out of the second-story windows of houses nearby frowsy looking women peered on familiar scenes.

The end of Water street, east of the Point bridge embankment, was still flooded late in the afternoon, and pedestrians carefully picked their way on planks and bricks around the corner of a house to reach the higher ground south of the Pennsylvania railroad's freight station.

In Water street no pumping engines had yet got to work, but in front of an establishment bearing the legend that "labor-saving devices" were for sale within men toiled at the old-fashioned back-breaking work of pumping out a cellar, a sweep-pole being attached to the pumps to furnish a grip hold for a half dozen men.

Coal Combine's Loss Slight.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company admits no losses of any consequence during the flood. They had little or no coal in the harbor and had taken the precaution to make everything very snug in the upper pools, where their fleets of barges are held. They will probably send several million bushels down the river to southern markets as soon as the waters fall enough to make navigation safe. The clerks in the transportation department were at work last night at the offices in Water street, but it was said that none of the officials were about to confirm or deny the report of the loss of several coal barges Saturday.

GREAT DAMAGE WAS DONE IN ALLEGHENY

Merchants in Three Streets Suffered to the Extent of Fifty Thousand Dollars.

When the sum total of the damage done by the flood is summed up numerous merchants and residents of River avenue, Sandusky street, Anderson street, Isabella street, and Lacock street, Allegheny will have big items. No less than 150 dwelling houses had their basements flooded, and in the majority of these the basement was used as a kitchen, and consequently contained furniture and wares of various kinds, peculiar to kitchens. About 25 stores and several machine shops, photograph galleries, printing establishments, and small shops also suffered by the flood.

Fehr and Woodburn's art rooms in Federal street, a few doors from River avenue, were flooded from the cellar to the wainscoting on the first floor. They estimate their damage at $2,500, which includes several hundred pieces of moldings destroyed in their store house in the rear of the building. Mr. Fehr was quite indignant when seen last night.

No Warning Was Given.

"Had we been told," he said, "that there was to have been a 35-foot stage, we could have prepared for it. But we did not get warned until the very morning the water started to pour in so rapidly that it was evident to everybody that a flood stage had come. Last Sunday Mr. Ridgway told us there was to be a 30-foot stage. The Sunday passed without an incident of note. In fact, the whole week passed without a word of warning. Mr. Ridgway was in communication with the headwaters, and could easily have formed a conclusion as to the exact condition of affairs."

The Cook plating establishment in Isabella street estimates its damage at $2,500. The entire stock of fine silver plating was destroyed.

Much Damage Done.

Altogether it is probable that the damages on that side of the river will be over $50,000 in Lacock and Isabella streets and River avenue. No definite estimate of the damage can be had, however.

The scenes on that side were interesting. All day, and long into the night, boys and many young women entertained themselves by drifting about the edge of the water on improvised rafts, skiffs and the like. Along River avenue last night, there were about 25 beer kegs floating, an evidence that there had been a wet Sunday along some parts of the avenue. Traffic generally was restored yesterday afternoon, and street cars managed to get over the bridges. There were unusual crowds out to see the sights along the river, and the various bridges were thick with sightseers.

STREET CARS IN FULL OPERATION

Practically All the Lines of Pittsburgh and Allegheny Were Enabled to Start Up Yesterday.

The crippled street car systems of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, belonging to the Pittsburgh Railways Company, made rapid recovery once the flood started to subside. Allegheny was hit hardest in delays because of the flooding of the power plant in Juniata street, but yesterday this was cleaned out and started again. All Allegheny cars were running last night save the Rebecca street line, and the line to Woods Run via the Union bridge.

All the officials of the company put in a busy time Saturday night and yesterday. President James D. Callery, S. L. Tone, assistant to the president, and General Superintendent John Murphy were occupied from early yesterday morning straightening out the tie-ups, and getting traffic started as rapidly as possible. Mr. Callery said last night that there would be no further interruption, and that the two lines still crippled would be started as soon as the water gets low enough.

All forenoon cars ran between the lake-covered corner of Federal and Robinson streets, and the stand at Liberty and Market streets, carrying people to and from Allegheny. At 1:20 in the afternoon the first car on the Allegheny side to run through the water and come over to Pittsburgh, made its appearance. "Here's where we go out of business," shouted one of the many drivers of wagons who had been reaping a harvest carrying people, to Division Superintendent Maxwell, who was running the car.

All the Allegheny cars were run down Federal street and brought across the suspension bridge to Liberty avenue and Market street until 4 o'clock, when those that usually run on the Ninth street bridge succeeded in getting through the water on Sandusky street. The California avenue, Perrysville avenue and other cars that come across the Ninth street bridge were switched at Federal and Ohio streets by crossing from one track to another.

The Bloomfield, Penn and Shady, Penn and Frankstown, and Butler street cars, which had been running in Liberty avenue Saturday afternoon and evening, did not get back to Penn avenue until 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. By this time the water had receded sufficiently over their regular routes.

The Second avenue system, which had been crippled, was opened up on all lines during the afternoon. The line between the Glenwood bridge and Braddock, on the north side of the Monongahela river, was opened at 4 o'clock.

Division Superintendent Daly of the West End lines, had large gangs of men at work on all the crippled routes, and by nightfall cars were running regularly.

With the exception of the incandescent lights in Sixth street the damage to the Allegheny County Light Company's lines was repaired during the day. Superintendent Lysinger, who had a large force of men at the Twelfth street plant fighting the water, said the Sixth street circuit would be repaired by today and this evening every lamp in the city would be supplied with power.

RAILROADS RUNNING TRAINS REGULARLY

Damage from Flood Has Been Repaired Sufficiently to Take Care of Passenger Traffic.

At the office of the chief train dispatcher of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad last evening it was announced that they were rapidly getting in shape again and that through trains were being started from Washington, although they were experiencing some little delay at Cumberland. No. 5, which left New York at 4:25 a. m., and should arrive here at 7:40 p. m., was about four hours late. No. 6, the through train for the east, was sent out on time at 8 a. m., and the dispatcher said that he was confident from reports received that it had gone through all right.

The trouble at Wheeling, however, continues, and yesterday and last night they were unable to get through on account of the bridge across Wheeling creek, but they were running trains and transferring passengers at that point. The officials expect to have this difficulty overcome this morning.

The officials of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad sent their first train through on their main line at 3:30 yesterday afternoon and they claim that their road is now open and in good shape, considering all that they have had to contend with. There is still some water over the tracks at Saw Mill run, where yesterday it was 8 feet deep.

The McKeesport and Youghiogheny division of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie was also opened up yesterday. At 5 p. m. the Monongahela express arrived in, and at 6 p. m. the same train went out. The tracks are being restored to their usual first-class shape by a large force of men and everything will be running as usual today.

There is much confusion on the Pennsylvania railroad in the movement of trains from Harrisburg and westbound connections were from one to two hours late last night at the Union station. It was reported that there was some trouble between Lancaster and Harrisburg, as all trains were run from Lancaster via York to Harrisburg.

This is probably owing to the fact reported at 12:15 yesterday morning that two spans of the cantilever bridge over the Susquehanna river on the Harrisburg side were swept away. These spans struck the bridge of the Northern Central railroad and so weakened the structure that the trains were not permitted to use it.

The Panhandle road seems to be in good shape and the officials state that they are having no trouble, all their trains running through without difficulty.

The Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad is experiencing considerable trouble on account of its tracks in Allegheny being rendered useless for the present, but it is using the tracks of the West Penn railroad and its trains arrive at and depart from the West Penn depot in Federal street. The Pittsburgh & Western is in the same shape.

FOOD DISTRIBUTED ABOUT ALLEGHENY

Imprisoned Residents Were Assisted in Their Trouble—Boatman Fined for Overcharging Passengers.

Supt. D. L. Fulton of the bureau of highways and sewers, assisted by Street Commissioner Perry Cassiday, was engaged all day yesterday in Allegheny, with 100 men and 15 wagons, washing the streets in the flooded districts, with hose attached to the fire plugs. They cleaned away the mud and debris as quickly as the waters receded.

The department of charities arranged to supply all the sufferers by the flood with coal and provisions, and all day long a number of police were busily engaged visiting the houses in the flooded streets in skiffs and providing for their wants.

Fred Goettman, Alderman Samuel Abernethy, Charles Engle and a number of others, representing ex-Mayor James G. Wyman, and acting upon his telegraphic instructions received from California on Saturday night, also went about in boats, furnishing coal and provisions to the needy. There were several collisions between the two rival parties, and many sharp words were exchanged as they raced against each other in their mission of charity and mercy.

Jacob Clark of Anderson street, Allegheny, was arrested early yesterday morning on complaint of a Hebrew peddler, who claimed that he had agreed to pay Clark 50 cents to ferry him from Federal and Robinson streets to the Ninth street bridge, but that when they were near the bridge, Clark demanded 25 cents additional and threatened to throw the peddler and his pack overboard when he refused to pay the extra price. The peddler called for help and Officers Lee and Traudretter went to his assistance. Police Magistrate Henry Runneshagen fined Clark $10, which he paid.

ALONG PENN AVENUE LOSS WAS HEAVIEST

Between Fourth and Twelfth Streets It Is Estimated at $300,000.

In the Penn avenue district traffic was restored and people, although it was Sunday, sat down to estimate their loss. In Eighteenth street the families who were driven out Saturday night returned yesterday morning to damp homes. The more fortunate contented themselves with staying up stairs until the flood went down.

An attempt to estimate the amount of damage would hardly succeed. In the lower end of the avenue the Lincoln hotel, the several large stores, furniture houses, and other wholesale houses suffered more or less. A general estimate will probably be reached today.

Some merchants say that $300,000 will not cover the damage from the Lincoln hotel to Twelfth street and Penn avenue.

There was no service in St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal church, Ninth street, yesterday morning, as the water had reached the auditorium on the first floor. Services were held in St. Peter's, Sixth avenue.

In the mill district the river went down rapidly, yesterday morning, and by night the waste and garbage brought down from the headwaters was lying about the lower streets and on the Allegheny Valley tracks. It is not positively known when the mills will resume. It is possible that some of the departments may work this morning, if the boilers can be repaired during the night.

The Sixteenth and Forty-third street bridges, which were declared unsafe and closed Saturday, were opened for traffic about noon yesterday. The water did but little damage to them.

Although Penn avenue in some parts was comparatively dry, the street cars were not run on it during the day on account of the water at Third (Thirtieth) street. At this point there was quite a depth at 7 o'clock, but later the cars passed over. Several of the managers at the mills stated that they would be able to resume this morning.

WATER SUBSIDES FROM THE PENITENTIARY

Guards and Convicts Were Busy Yesterday Cleaning Up the Building.

The flood did less damage at the Western penitentiary than was expected when the water began to rise so suddenly and rapidly. Warden Johnston, the deputy wardens, the guards and 700 prisoners all worked together doing their utmost to save goods stored in the low-lying portions of the buildings. Much material was ruined by the water, but things might have been much worse.

The flood drove Warden Johnston out of his residence adjoining the penitentiary, but he returned yesterday, and by 7.0 p. m. he was enjoying a sweet sleep, recuperating from the hard work he had undergone. The river that had covered the grounds and filled the basement of the structure had subsided by night about five feet, enough to enable guards and prisoners to clean up the mud deposited everywhere, but not sufficient to uncover the heating and light plants. It was expected that this morning the river will have gone down so far that the lighting machinery can be cleaned and started up again, but the heating plant will probably have to be entirely overhauled, and it may be several weeks before it is in operation. The entire damage will not exceed $5,000.

M'KEES ROCKS LOSS WILL REACH $100,000

Most of the Borough Was Under and the Churches Could Not Hold Services.

McKees Rocks has suffered severely from the flood, and as the waters went down yesterday great masses of debris and mud were left on the principal streets of the borough. At the bridge over Chartiers creek logs, trees, railroad ties and other debris is piled to a great height.

The trolley car service is badly crippled and last evening they were still compelled to leave all passengers at Esplen. The Coraopolis division is completely tied up. It is expected that this condition of affairs will continue for several days. The Presbyterian and Methodist churches were completely surrounded by water yesterday and it was impossible to hold services.

To add to the troubles of the citizens the borough was without illuminating gas last night, the main of the Fort Pitt Gas Company at Groveton being broken. Then the milk dealers, being unable to obtain their usual supply of milk on account of the high water, increased the price to as high as 50 cents per quart.

It is estimated that the total loss in McKees Rocks will be over $100,000.

great wall of masonry, 13 feet in height, which protects the town in the form of a dyke. In the pitch darkness it tore through the long main street of Marshall, working fearful destruction. For a time it looked as if the town would be swept bodily into the torrent.

The crash of falling buildings and the cries of distress rose above the roar of the flood. Houses were swept from their foundations, toppled over and floated with the torrent. Cars were moved from the tracks, and carried on the flood as so much debris. Horses, cows and swine from the village and above struggled amid household furniture and millions of feet of lumber.

Populace Forced to Flee.

The village streets disappeared under the rapidly rising water and the houses built against the mountain side ceased to furnish refuge for the populace which fled before the raging waters.

The railway telegraph operator attempted to send news of the disaster to Asheville, but the answer to his frantic calls brought no response. He had been forced to fly for his life before the advancing sheet of water. So sudden was the onslaught of the river that none were enabled to save goods or stock. By midnight not a building remained intact on the south side of the town, except the three brick stores of Redmon and Gudger, and these are greatly damaged.

The building of the Carolina Mineral Company was undermined, floated for a hundred feet and was then wrecked. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

The law office of United States Senator Pritchard and Thomas S. Rollins was moved from its foundations, completely flooded and its contents entirely destroyed, including Senator Pritchard's valuable law library. The loss of this firm reaches $8,000.

In front of the county jail is a large trestle. This was swept from its foundation and hurled with terrific force against the jail. The prisoners, panic-stricken, were finally taken from their cells and removed to the court house on high ground, where they were placed under guard. It is said, however, that one woman is missing.

Another Town Blotted Out.

News has reached here late tonight that Hot Springs, west of Marshall, has been swept from the map. Relief parties left Asheville this afternoon, proceeding on horseback to Marshall. It is said that the loss of life is greater than at first supposed, but details are unobtainable at this hour, as the wires are all down.

Great apprehension is felt for Hot Springs and towns west of there along the French Broad and its tributaries. The river is filled with wreckage. The rain began again there late this afternoon, and is now pouring down in torrents.

FINE HEARSE LOST ON A FLOODED MEADOW

The Mourners Managed to Rescue the Casket and Body Only by Means of a Boat.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 2.—The high water in the Genesee river and its tributaries up the valley was the means of breaking up a funeral near Spring Water yesterday afternoon, causing the loss of a valuable hearse and the rescue of the corpse, a most dangerous undertaking.

Undertakers Baird and Doolittle, who had charge of the funeral, were driving to the burial grounds when they discovered that the bridge over Wilsons creek was down. Driving up the bank of the creek they endeavored to cut across the water-covered meadows to reach High Bridge, when a deep hole was encountered. It became necessary to cut the horses loose from the hearse to save them from drowning, while the waters closed around the body of the vehicle, wetting the casket.

The mourners following the hearse, horrified at the sight, jumped into the water and endeavored to push the carriage out of the stream, but only succeeded in getting it into deeper water. One of the funeral directors mounted one of the hearse horses and rode up stream for assistance, returning an hour later with a rowboat, into which the casket was finally lowered and carried to a nearby house.

The undertakers worked the greater part of the afternoon preparing for another attempt at burial. When finally a rope and large boat had been secured by which to rescue the hearse, the vehicle had entirely disappeared. After several hours hunt for the missing hearse without result the funeral was postponed until today. The missing hearse was valued at $1,200.

Presented to his royal highness, Prince Henry of Prussia, as a souvenir from "The Hermitage," the home of Andrew Jackson, Nashville, Tenn., March 2, 1902.

A handsome floral design was also presented on behalf of the German-American society of Nashville. In addition the mayor's address, enrolled on parchment, was presented as a souvenir. It is illustrated in German colors, bears the German seal in one corner and that of the United States in another, the whole surmounted by the German standard and the United States flag intertwined.

The prince said but few words in reply, expressing himself as highly gratified over his reception. He said he regretted that he could not meet and shake hands with all the people and asked the mayor to thank them for him.

Louisville was reached at 7:45 o'clock, and there Prince Henry heard an address of welcome, received a handsome souvenir album and an engrossed address, met several citizens, acknowledged with repeated salutes the cheers of several thousand persons, and at 8 o'clock left for Indianapolis. The album was from the city and the address was presented by the German Soldiers' society of Louisville, through Col. Poller, the German consul stationed at Cincinnati. Four hundred members of the Social Maennerchor, Liederkranz and Concordia greeted the arrival of the prince with "America," and as he reentered his train they sang "My Kentucky Home."

Indianapolis was reached at 11:05 o'clock, the run from Louisville being made without special incident. The prince dined at 8 o'clock, and his guests were Admiral Evans, Col. Bingham, George W. Boyd, Carl Poller, German consul at Cincinnati, and Lieutenant Commander von Egidy. The special left for St. Louis at 11:20.

Fully 15,000 people greeted the prince on his arrival at Indianapolis. Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter made an address and on behalf of the city presented a souvenir album that is a marvel of the bookbinders' and engravers' art.

FREEDOM FOR ALL EMPLOYES IS ADVOCATED

Civil Service Commissioner Foulke Puts Himself on Record.

HE TELLS A PLAIN STORY

In Letter to Philadelphia Officials He Says He Is Accustomed to Give Modest Sum for Political Purposes, But It Should Be Voluntary.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—The attitude of the civil service commission toward the political activity of government employes has been defined in letters Commissioner Foulke has sent to Postmaster McMichael and R. Francis Wood, both of Philadelphia. In his letter to Mr. Wood, the substance of which is also stated in the letter to the postmaster, Mr. Foulke says:

"We object to certain solicitations for contributions, made by those in authority, because they are, in effect, coercing the political action of employes; but would it not also be coercing their political action to tell them that they should not contribute and that they must take no part whatever in a campaign?

Makes a Plain Statement.

"For myself, I have in years past always given a modest contribution for political purposes, and I shall not cease to do so in the future because I hold office; but I do not intend to give any more or less on that account, and I do not want my example to be construed as an intimation to any employe of this office that he is to give or not to give, or that he is not as free to give to the Democratic fund as he is to the Republican fund, or that he may not as freely give to the faction opposed to me in the county as to the faction not opposed to me, if he so desires. As to campaign contributions, it seems to me that the purpose of the law is to see that they are really voluntary and not actually or impliedly coerced.

Man Should Be Actually Free.

"As to political action and activity, it seems to me the purpose of the law is that a man should be free to do what he likes in office as well as out of it, with the limitation that it must not interfere with his official duties nor in any other way bring scandal upon or impair the efficiency of the branch of the service to which he belongs. In the latter particular any attack made upon that service, or upon the administration of which it would form a part, would necessarily be in derogation of sound discipline. We who are strong believers in the merit system should not take so extreme a view that it could not be sustained in principle and would not be justified by public opinion."

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL WILL COME UP TODAY

It Will Continue to Hold First Place in the Senate Until Disposed Of.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—In accordance with yesterday's decision the senate will take up the ship subsidy bill tomorrow and it will continue to hold its place as the unfinished business until disposed of. There is, however, no disposition, for the present, to press the matter to the exclusion of all other business, so that it probably will be laid aside temporarily at different times to permit the consideration of other matters, including Senator Hoar's bill for the protection of the president against assault. The legislative appropriation bill will be reported during the week and will take precedence of the ship bill in its own right, if Senator Cullom, who will have it in charge, decides to ask the senate to take it up, as he probably will. The subsidy bill will not be debated for so great a length of time as was the measure of the last congress. There will be a number of speeches on it, however, before it is allowed to go to a vote. Senator Frye, chairman of the committee on commerce, who will have the bill in charge, will explain the measure when it is taken up on Monday. Senator Clay will address the senate from the Democratic point of view and probably will be followed by Senators Turner, Vest, Mallory and other Democratic senators.

PLANS FOR THE HOUSE.

Lower Branch of Congress Will Give Nearly All the Week to Postal Affairs.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—The house of representatives will give most of its time during the present week to postal affairs, beginning tomorrow with the bill placing the rural free delivery system on the contract basis, and following later with the postoffice appropriation bill. The rural free delivery measure has aroused much controversy and there promises to be an active debate, with considerable doubts as to the passage of the bill.

It was the original plan to make the change in the rural delivery system a feature of the postoffice appropriation bill, but as this would have necessitated a special rule the proposition was brought forward in a special bill. It is expected that debate on the bill, which was to have the right of way until disposed of, will take about two days.

The postoffice appropriation bill contains items relating to subsidy for fast mail, which are usually fruitful of much discussion. It is expected that the appropriation bill will occupy all the latter part of the week, although next Friday is set aside for war claims.

Aside from the regular house work the Republican members hold a second caucus on Monday night to consider further the course to be pursued on Cuban reciprocity.

UNCLE SAM MADE MONEY.

Monthly Statement of the Government Shows a Surplus of Over Two Millions.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—The monthly statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of February, 1902, the total receipts were $41,159,730, and the expenditures $39,099,250, leaving a surplus for the month of $2,060,449.

The receipts from the several sources of revenue are given as follows: Customs, $15,213,929, increase as compared with February, 1901, $1,500,000; internal revenue, $18,456,730, decrease, $3,500,000; miscellaneous, $2,480,009, decrease, $2,500,000; the expenditures on account of the war department were $8,578,518, decrease of $2,400,000; on account of the navy, $5,-700,029, increase, $1,350,000.

The total expenditures show an increase of $65,000.

Church Was Robbed---Wealthy Man Hangs Himself

WEALTHY OHIO MAN HANGS HIMSELF AT WARREN

PRESIDENT OF A BANK

The Suicide of a Favorite Son Had Preyed Upon His Mind.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WARREN, O., March 2.—The Hon. Henry Bishop Perkins, one of Ohio's most prominent and philantropic citizens, killed himself by hanging today in his office adjoining his home in this city. The body was found shortly before noon by his family who went to call him to dinner. Illness and the suicide of a favorite son, a Yale graduate, a year ago, is believed to have made Mr. Perkins temporarily insane.

Mr. Perkins was born in Warren and always lived here. He was president of the First National bank of Warren and also prominent in railroad and state affairs. He possessed a large fortune, said to be $3,000,000 or $4,000,000.

He was 78 years old. In 1878 he was one of the commissioners that re-established the boundary line between Ohio and Pennsylvania, and in 1879 he was elected to the legislature, serving two terms. He was a Harrison elector in 1888.

He is survived by a widow and one son and two daughters. One daughter is the wife of Judge Samuel W. Smith of the common pleas bench of Cincinnati. Miss Mary Perkins and the son, Jacob Perkins, live at home.

FLOOD CARRIES DEATH AND WOE

bnt some of the suburbs, especially Ceredo and Catlettsburg, Ky., are inundated in low districts.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., March 2.—(Special.)—The flood in the Ohio river has reached Parkersburg and a part of this city is under water. The danger line, 36 feet, was passed tonight and the river is still rising four inches an hour. By morning some of the lower business streets will be under water. Already many dwellings are surrounded and families have been moving all day to places of safety. Mrs. Frank Wire and her twin babies, two days old, were moved to the City hospital from a house in which there was a foot of water. The city hall holds a large number of persons who are tonight homeless and churches will be thrown open to others. A heavy snow is falling tonight and the weather is colder, causing much suffering among those who are driven from their homes.

Many Men Idle.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 2.—(Special.)—The river reached a stage of 41 feet 9 inches and began to recede at 4 o'clock this afternoon. All houses on Water street were flooded, also the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad passenger and freight station. Three thousand men are idle by reason of high water closing the mills at Mingo and several plants here. Fifty houses in Mingo are flooded and one Italian is reported drowned.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., March 2.—(Special.)—The high water has flooded the city water works pumping station to a depth of six feet. The pumps cannot be operated and the city water supply is cut off. All manufacturing plants will have to suspend until the flood abates. A small portion of the town is being supplied by a fire engine pumping water into the mains.

EMPIRE STATE ALSO SUFFERS FROM FLOOD

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—Floods along the line of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad are interfering extensively with traffic. No through trains for the west were dispatched this afternoon and evening. The 3:35 p. m. train for Albany left on time but went only to Hudson. Beyond that point bridges are down and tracks washed away between Hudson and Albany.

The great trouble, however, was reported at points between Albany and Buffalo, where trains are stalled or have not been sent out because of the floods along the line. All day hundreds of travelers wanting to go west were in despair and making anxious inquiries as to when trains would start for these points, only to be told: "It might be any minute, and it might be hours."

The Chicago express, due at 10 a. m., and the second section of the southwestern limited, the Buffalo express and the Atlantic express, all due in the morning, were not heard from up to a late hour.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 2.—Railroad traffic has been badly interfered with and not a wheel has turned on a street car line today, as a result of the Hudson river overflowing its banks. The entire southern portion of the city is under water and residents have to use rowboats to get to and from their homes. The New York Central tracks west of Albany are entirely under water and all trains are transferred to the West Shore railroad at Rotterdam junction.

Trains which left New York at 7:30 o'clock last night did not reach this city at all. At Castleton the water was so high that the engine fires were extinguished and the passengers were forced to remain in the cars until daylight, when boats were procured and they were transferred to carry-alls, which took them to Brookview, where a Boston & Albany train was in waiting to bring them to this city.

At 8 o'clock tonight the water began to fall slowly and little more trouble is looked for.

CHURCH IS LOCKED AGAINST MINISTER

Dismissed Pastor Not Permitted to Conduct Services in Cumberland.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CUMBERLAND, MD., March 2.—St. Paul's Lutheran church was locked all day against the Rev. Theodore J. Yost, pastor for seven years, dismissed at a sensational congregational meeting last week. The council was asked for his resignation and his appeal to the congregation followed by riotous proceedings, resulted in his defeat.

The sexton had the main auditorium locked against him today, it being kept cold and dark, by order of the council. Had Mr. Yost appeared it was arranged to have him legally elected. The council announced yesterday in the papers that there would be no preaching service, morning or evening.

The meeting of the society of Christian Endeavor took place tonight, and was the largest ever held here. L. W. Yost, the pastor's son, charged with stealing the church records, is president, but was not present, although a number of the followers of his father took part in the meeting.

CLAIM BIG ESTATE.

Ohio People Said to Be Heirs to Pennsylvania Coal Land.

WHEELING, W. VA., March 2.—(Special.)—Mrs. F. H. Barker and Miss Rena Horner of Bridgeport and John Horner of Bellaire are among the claimants to an estate in the Pennsylvania coal regions which a New York syndicate is said to have recently attempted to buy for $11,000,000.

They are among the two hundred heirs at law of John Dye, who in 1806 leased the property for 99 years. The heirs are said to have been discovered in the effort of the eastern syndicate to clear up the title to the property.

MYSTERIOUSLY INJURED.

Passenger Conductor Found Unconscious in a Freight Car.

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 2.—(Special.)—Conductor Edward Clearfield of Butler, in charge of the Pittsburgh & Western flyer between this city and Pittsburgh, was mysteriously injured here this afternoon at the Union station a short time before his train was scheduled to leave.

He was found lying in a Lake Erie box car ten minutes after he had walked from the station and was taken to the hospital. His head was covered with gashes. When he recovered consciousness he was unable to tell how he had been injured. He was not robbed.

JOHNNY SMOKER IS SICK.

He Has Smallpox and May Start An Epidemic of the Disease.

WOOSTER, O., March 2.—(Special.)—John Smoker, 9-year-old son of Amos Smoker, a farmer living near Smithfield, is ill with smallpox and as the boy was in the school up to the night before the disease was discovered there is great fear of an epidemic.

Found Dead in His Yard.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., March 2.—(Special.)—George Dolter, a young man who resided at Oak Hill, New Brighton, met death in a peculiar manner at his home some time Saturday evening. His dead body was found in the yard at his home, lying face downward in the mud. Dolter was 26 years old and was employed at the Penn Bridge Company's plant at this place.

CHURCH IS ROBBED OF COMMUNION LINEN

GIFT OF THE PASTOR

A Congregation Which Was Recently Disrupted, Loses Property.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 2.—About $150 worth of Irish linen, used in the communion services at the Tabernacle United Presbyterian church, is missing and a committee is investigating the cause of its disappearance. The linen was purchased about a year ago by the Rev. Dr. S. R. Frazier, the pastor, on a tour through Europe and presented to the church.

Recently there was a secession of some 200 members from the church, the seceders leaving while Dr. Frazier was in New York. The linen disappeared about the same time. No forcible entrance was gained to the sanctuary and as the number of keys to the church is limited the committee thinks that it can trace the theft.

TWO PLANTS BURNED.

Pottery at Zanesville and Planing Mill at New Castle Destroyed.

ZANESVILLE, O., March 2.—The large plant of the J. B. Owens Pottery Company was destroyed by fire today, causing a loss of $300,000, with an insurance about one-half. Many valuable designs, the accumulation of years, were destroyed. Four hundred employes are out of work. The works will be rebuilt at once. The fire is one of the most disastrous in the history of the city. One of the warehouses of the Kearns-Gorsuch Company was damaged $20,000 by a fire following the Owens fire.

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 2.—(Special.)—The planing mill of the Lawrence County Lumber Company was completely destroyed by fire this afternoon, causing a loss of $20,000, which is partially covered by insurance. The flames originated from a stove on the second story. The plant will be rebuilt.

TO USE WASTE LIMESTONE.

Bricks Are to Be Made from Output of Abandoned Quarries.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 2.—(Special.)—The limestone companies will hereafter use an output from the quarries which have heretofore been discarded as waste. The Bessemer Limestone Company is at work on the construction of a plant which will turn out 75,000 bricks per day. Six kilns are to be built with a capacity of 250,000 brick.

Tests have been made of the refuse of the quarries, and it is shown that it makes a superior grade of brick to any so far known. The kilns will be located at the quarries at Carbon, Pa.

VICTOR HUGO'S HOUSE PRESENTED TO PARIS

Centenary Fetes in Memory of the Poet Have Terminated.

SCENES WERE BRILLIANT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, March 2.—The fetes in commemoration of the centenary of Victor Hugo's birth terminated today with the ceremony of handing over to to city of Paris, to serve as a Victor Hugo museum, the house in which he for some time lived in the Place des Vosges. The weather was superb.

The exercises, which took place within the picturesque setting of the historic Place des Vosges, were very happily conceived and a vast crowd gathered within the square to witness the proceedings. A plaster model of Victor Hugo, taken from the bas-relief, "The Dream of the Poet," by the Sculptor Barreau, stood on a pedestal facing Victor Hugo's house, in the corner of the square. It represents the poet sitting on a rock, draped in antique fashion and with a lyre at his feet.

The vice president of the municipality of Paris presided at the ceremonies and read a eulogy of Victor Hugo. The house was handed over to the city of Paris and officially accepted.

The prettiest item in the exercises then took place in the filing past the statue of Victor Hugo of 1,200 school children, two by two, the little ones leading and the older pupils coming last. The boys and girls marched past in alternating couples, the boys carrying palm branches and the girls bearing flowers, which they threw at the foot of the monument, soon forming a mass of bloom and verdure, out of the center of which rose the statue of the poet.

The cortege concluded with girls representing the muses of Paris. A young Parisian working girl, chosen by her comrades as the muse of labor, deposited a simple bunch of flowers on the pedestal of the statue, the bands meanwhile playing "The March of the Crowning of the Muse," composed by Charpentier, the author of the opera of "Louise."

It had by this time grown dark. With the fall of night there was a sudden fanfare of trumpets. This was the signal for the illumination of the square. Several searchlights were thrown on the old house, bathing it in white light, while on the facade, by a combination of electric lamps, appeared a mauve-colored muse on a golden background, holding a lyre.

At the same time scrolls bearing the names of the poet's principal works were lighted around the square and the railing around the Place des Vosges burst into a multi-colored illumination, the fairy lamps being so arranged along the arches and outlines of the architecture as to reproduce a part of the Alhambra, thus suggesting scenes from Hugo's "Orientales."

The ceremonies concluded with the singing of a specially composed cantata by Mr. Charpentier, and the playing of the "Marseillaise." The Hotel de Ville, the Place des Vosges and the neighboring thoroughfares are illuminated tonight and open-air balls are being held.

Fifty Rebels Killed.

COLON, COLOMBIA, March 2.—Liberal forces, under the command of Gen. Villa, appeared at Rio Frio, in the department of Magdalena, February 21. After an engagement with government troops from Barranquilla which lasted four hours the rebels were routed with 70 men killed or wounded.

SHOT BY A BOY.

Mingo Junction Saloonkeeper Is Fatally Wounded.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 2.—(Special.)—Wasil Paluich, a Polish saloonkeeper at Mingo junction, was shot by Edward Buchanan, aged 19, last night and is dying this evening in Gill hospital.

Paluich went out to chase some mischievous boys away and thinking Buchanan was one of them, choked him and the boy struck his assailant. Paluich ran into his saloon for his bung starter, and when he struck Buchanan with it the boy shot Paluich, the bullet from the 38-caliber revolver entering his right breast. Buchanan was arrested.

A CITY CAPTURED BY FIFTY SOLDIERS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOMBAY, March 2.—Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul, a descendant of the old Wahabi Ameers, with an army of 2,000 men, has captured the city of E'Riad in Central Arabia.

Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul entered the city by stratagem at night with 50 followers. These men rode to the palace and killed the governor of E'Riad and 30 of his retainers. The garrison of the city then surrendered, whereupon the army of Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul entered.

It is believed that the Wahabi dynasty is endeavoring to regain its supremacy and overthrow Ibu Rashid, the ameer of Nejd, and conquer the latter city. Many tribes are flocking to the banner of Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul.

POPE LEO'S BIRTHDAY.

Ninety-Second Anniversary of His Holiness Was Fitly Celebrated.

ROME, March 2.—His holiness, Pope Leo XIII., was 92 years old today, and the city, especially the circles of the Vatican, duly celebrated the event.

From all over the world congratulatory messages poured in. Emperors and presidents alike have sent messages of kindly words, while thousands of others remembered the head of the Catholic church.

The celebration of the day began with sunrise and continued all day. It was combined with the celebration of the twenty-fourth anniversary of the pope's coronation. The latter should have taken place on February 20, but was postponed so that the two anniversaries might be observed together.

The many reports that have been circulated recently to the effect that Pope Leo is failing in health are officially denied. He still keeps a careful watch on everything that goes on and even superintended many of the details for the present celebration. He certainly looks sufficiently ruddy for a man of his age.

TILLMAN'S WAIL IS OF LIBERTY STIFLED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—Under the auspices of the Clan-na-Gael the one hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmett was celebrated tonight at the Academy of Music. Senator Tillman of South Carolina delivered the oration. He was received with great applause. He said:

"I am no orator, and if I have any claim to it, it is because I speak the truth and fight the devil with fire."

"Well," came a voice from the audience, "if you're not an orator, you're a good fighter."

The senator then launched into an attack upon England for trampling upon the Irish people. Suddenly turning from this subject, he said, in strenuous tones:

"If being a flunkey and apeing nobility and establishing a system that is akin to England's policy is making Tories of us, then I think we are there at last, or at least the government at Washington has got there. Why have we got such a government? There is the rub. Why do you pass resolutions such as you have tonight and on other occasions, and then go out and vote for those who are stifling liberty in Washington? We are losing our love for our institutions, and if we continue thus we will go the way of other republics."

Prominent Men Were Burglars.

MATTOON, ILL., March 2.—In a fight between policemen and burglars Chief of Police Lyons received wounds that will cause the loss of an arm, and two of the burglars were wounded, one of them fatally. The marauders belong to well-known families.

MRS. SCHWAB ASSISTS AMERICANS IN PARIS

MANY ARE FOUND IN NEED

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, March 2.—By her recent charitable acts here Mrs. Schwab, wife of Charles M. Schwab, has endeared herself to the Americans in this city.

She learned of the distressful conditions under which live many struggling American girls and boys who are studying art or music and so gave to Mrs. Arthur Valois, wife of the Chevalier Valois, an American lawyer, a handsome sum to relieve those students.

Madame Valois had no difficulty in finding needy subjects for Mrs. Schwab's charity. She found American girls shivering with cold and hunger in the Latin quarter.

Among others, she found a Philadelphia girl of a well-known family in extreme want. Madame Valois says that some cases w..... were relieved by Mrs. Schwab's money recall the days of Abelard, when poor students remained shut because they had loaned their coats to others to enable them to attend lectures.

The name of Schwab will long be remembered by the Americans of the Latin quarter.

SKULL WAS FRACTURED.

Mysterious Wound of James Murray, Taken to Hospital Because of Convulsions.

James Murray of 2947 Penn avenue was taken to the West Penn hospital in No. 3 patrol wagon about midnight, suffering from violent convulsions. He was unconscious when he arrived at the hospital and his condition is critical.

An examination by the hospital physicians showed that the convulsions were caused by a fracture of the skull sustained several days ago, a club or some other blunt instrument being used. The police say they merely removed the man from his boarding house to the hospital on account of the violence of his convulsions. They were called to the house by the boarding house keeper, who said the man had taken a fit.

Capt. Enoch P. King Dead.

ST. LOUIS, March 2.—Capt. Enoch P. King, one of the oldest rivermen in St. Louis, died at his home today from old age. For 40 years he was a familiar figure on deck and in the pilot house of Mississippi river steamboats. At the time of the famous race between the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez, he piloted the Lee from Memphis to St. Louis. There was a heavy flood and the captain wished to stop the boat until it disappeared, but Capt. King insisted taht he knew the river perfectly, and the boat went on, winning the race.

TEN PAGES.

An Important Factor.

The movement for higher wages in the building trades concerns more people than those directly involved in the settlement of the wage scales. It is a fact that it matters little to the men who will pay the wages whether wages are to be higher or lower, except for their uncompleted contracts. It is the persons who will pay the men who pay the wages who have most reason to view the controversy with interest, and they will have no direct voice in shaping events. There has been and is much money seeking investment in Pittsburgh, and much of it has gone and is going into new houses. There has been and is a strong demand for houses to rent and the effort to supply the demand has furnished abundant employment for house builders and all the men in the allied trades. In fact the pressure for houses has furnished much employment that there are not workmen enough to supply the demand. This furnishes the justification for the demands for increases of wages. The demand for houses has caused an increase in rents throughout the entire Pittsburgh district, making houses and other buildings a profitable investment. Increases in wages of those employed in the building trades will cause an increase in the cost of buildings to be contracted for. Whether the demand from renters will continue so strong that owners can charge the excess of cost against tenants in the form of increased rent is a question that does not immediately concern either wageworkers or contractors, but which has an important bearing on the future of both. The investor will take into account the increased cost for the purpose of estimating the interest a given investment will return him during a term of years. His conclusions will have more to do with the prosperity of the building trades than will the conclusions of the men who agree upon the wage scales for the coming year. He is a silent factor in the situation, and, in spite of his silence, the most important.

For Lieutenant Governor.

Lawrence county Republicans present Hon. William M. Brown, former state senator, for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. This is the second announcement in western Pennsylvania for this post of honor. The county committee of Alleghany county has asked support for Dr. Flood of Meadville, and he has been given favorable mention in several quarters. The action of Lawrence county's committee gives him a strong rival. Senator Brown is worthy of hearty support. The other counties in his congressional district have not been heard from as yet, but there is good reason to believe that they will send delegates to the state convention who will stand solidly behind Lawrence county's choice. Senator Brown made an excellent record in the state senate and has an acquaintance throughout the state that will be of great service to him in the contest in which he has been entered by the representatives of the constituency he served so well in legislative matters at the state capital.

Dangerous Pessimism.

Recorder Goff of New York made an address recently before the Nineteenth Century club in that city which overflows with the sort of pessimism about American federal and municipal institutions that is working so much damage in the minds of a certain class of impressionable people. There is a way in which even a truth may be stated that makes it more dangerous than a lie. Recorder Goff has selected that way and treats present conditions of state and municipal affairs from the standpoint of the anarchist, who regards certain isolated evils as evidence that the whole lump is bad and fit only to be swept out of existence. In the case of the New York jurist such utterances arise from a too jaundiced view of evils immediately within his ken. The great harm, however, is in the fact that the next man who is found adapting and giving voice to the dangerous doctrines will not have an audience so well balanced or so discriminative as a body of Nineteenth Century club members and visitors.

Views that to a group of self-restrained, intelligent Americans may be only a stimulus to more earnest citizenship, may be like sparks of fire amid dry stubble when copied and handed over, hall mark and all, to an assembly of men who do not think deeper than the mere surface.

Mr. Hardenbergh for Watres.

The statement made by Auditor General Hardenbergh, who formerly represented Wayne county in the state senate, is interesting. Wayne county Republicans have instructed their delegates to the state convention for former Lieutenant Governor Watres, and Mr. Hardenbergh, while speaking in a friendly and appreciative manner of Attorney General Elkin, gives his adherence to the man who is the choice of his county. While his statement in behalf of Watres is not so pronounced as was the "sink or swim" declaration of Insurance Commissioner Durham in behalf of Elkin, it is a valuable contribution to the literature of the gubernatorial campaign, as it indicates that official sentiment at Harrisburg is not incapable of taking note of public feeling. Of course, when a man's own county expresses itself it is the part of wisdom for him if he has his thoughts on the future to take heed, but it is doubtless true that the voice of Pittsburgh sounds fully as loud in Mr. Hardenbergh's ears as does the voice of Wayne. The auditor general is the first person in official life at the state capital to be heard speaking for a candidate other than Elkin, and though there is a note of regret in his expression, the fact that there is an expression is important as indicating that the tide has taken so strong a turn since the February elections that even at Harrisburg it is coming to be recognized that there is more than one side to the picture.

A Wise Action.

California is doing something that might with propriety be imitated by the state of Texas. Press dispatches inform us that the state mineralogist of California has instituted an investigation of oil properties that are being advertised through the country as great dividend earners. Such an investigation can do no harm to any legitimate concern and if it uncovers the rottenness of concerns that are not what they claim to be, the public they have been trying to gull will be the gainer. The state mineralogist says of his investigation:

> There are fake concerns in this state that are making all sorts of promises in the east and in Europe to ensnare the unwary. I have received letters from bankers in Europe and elsewhere in which were inclosed circulars issued from this city and other points in California, in which the pretense of being able to earn enormous annual percentages on investments annually is set forth. Oil properties and mines will be investigated wherever there is any reasonable question concerning the representations that they are making for the purpose of selling stock. When a company is found to be operating under false pretenses I will inform the postmaster general of the United States and that will lead to having the objectionable circulars excluded from the mails.

We heartily commend this work and hope other states where there are oil developments or anticipated developments will take note of what California is doing and do the same. In Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and New York the production of petroleum is a legitimate business. Steps should be taken in all other states where petroleum is found to maintain the business on this same honorable basis.

Aftermath of the Flood.

It will require several days to reach anything like a just estimate of the damage wrought by the floods and high water in the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny alone, but by that time the matter will be so old a story that no one will give much thought to this detail.

A fortunate and noteworthy feature of the flood is the fact that there were only one or two deaths recorded as an immediate result of the high water. Suffering and deprivation there was, but timely caution prevented great loss of life and property.

Forecaster Frank Ridgway of the local weather office began sending out warnings of the coming flood between 7 and 8 o'clock Friday night. He notified the police departments of the two cities that a 25-foot stage of water might be looked for before morning "and that all property should be moved for a stage of not less than 30 feet," Mr. Ridgway said that the rise would probably continue all day Saturday, and that the maximum stage of water would probably be reached Saturday afternoon or evening. At the same time all lower river points were notified of the impending danger. As a result of this warning the two police departments proceeded actively to work and all in the threatened districts were given notice of what was coming. Friday night and Saturday morning, therefore, saw a very busy time, and when the waters swelled up and overflowed the low lying districts the victims of the flood had had opportunity to prepare for the wetting. All things considered, Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh district have escaped very well. There are inconveniences remaining, but the peril is past.

Now that the waters have subsided and a chance is given to examine into the effects of the overflow the first and pressing duty is to remove as quickly as possible the immediate results of the disaster. Flood sediment is a sure and dangerous breeder of disease.

Cellars and by-ways into which the water found its way should be cleaned and renovated at the earliest possible moment. Mud and debris left in the track of the receding waters should be removed as fast as the authorities of the two cities can have it done. The high water has carried to every corner and crevice where it found lodgement the seeds of disease. Wisdom and sound laws of health demand that this refuse be gotten rid of at once. Bad as the flood has been it may be made worse should the aftermath be left to breed disease and death in those sections overrun by the high waters.

A Small Straw.

The Merchants' association of New York is protesting to the members of congress of the state in an effort to save to New York city the last vestige of a once profitable business of furnishing to the government supplies for Indians. This business in New York formerly amounted to $2,000,000 a year, but the aggressiveness of Chicago has succeeded in taking away from the eastern metropolis all but $500,000 a year, and this remnant is threatened by the circumstance that the superintendency of the Indian warehouse in New York city has been abolished by the Indian commissioner. First of all Chicago captured from New York the contracts for bacon, barley, beans, beef, corn, cornmeal, feed, flour, hard bread, hominy, lard, mess pork, rolled oats, oats, salt, furniture and woodenware, saddlery, agricultural implements, wagons, glass, oil, paints, brass and iron kettles, tin and tinware, stoves, hollowware, hardware and medical supplies. Then there were transferred to Chicago the bids for coffee, rice, sugar, tea, boots and shoes, groceries, crockery and school supplies. This left for New York only the bids for blankets, woolen and knit goods, cotton goods, clothing, hats and caps and notions, and now this trade is threatened.

In view of the immense volume of business of New York these losses do not seem to make much of a hole, and if the remaining $500,000 of the business in supplies for the Indians follows the rest, the metropolis will hardly notice it in the general showing for the year in which it occurs. But it is an aggregate of small losses that count, and New York traders are wise in not being indifferent, though they must expect to lose some lines of business in whole or in part to interior cities and some other lines in whole or in part to maritime cities. New York cannot expect its relative position to remain unchanged by the growth and enterprise of the rest of the country. Its own growth in population and business is constant, but the growth of other centers of population is certain to act as some check on it. New York has a long lead and is in no danger of losing its lead, but it cannot expect to maintain the same distance in advance of all others.

In the death of John W. Bailey, for many years the managing editor of the Philadelphia Record and latterly the president of the Record Company, a newspaper worker who came up from a position of obscurity to one of prominence and influence has passed away. Mr. Bailey was a man of indomitable energy and aggressiveness, and during the lifetime of the late William M. Singerly contributed in no small degree to making the Record a newspaper of international reputation.

Major Jenkins, the Rough Rider who was to receive that sword during the Charleston visit of the president, seems to be disposed to do a little rough riding on his own account.

It is thought that the Commoner will restrain its enthusiasm and issue no Prince Henry extra while the distinguished visitor is in the west.

Pittsburgh with characteristic energy will scrape the mud out of her cellars and continue active preparations for moving day.

The flood did us one good turn. It carried off on its tide the worst February known in these parts for twenty years.

Pittsburgh is a little long on floods this winter. She had hardly recovered from the political washout a few weeks ago.

Perhaps Prince Henry took that ride on the locomotive in order to get in proper trim for his Chicago reception.

Chicago will do its best this week to make Prince Henry forget that he was ever in New York.

Canine aristocracy hereabouts is in a great flutter over the forthcoming dog show this week.

Philadelphia is trying to brush the water out of its eyes in time to welcome Prince Henry.

Congressman Wheeler has so far kindly refrained from breaking into the program.

The ice gorge that was so much dreaded was lost in the swim.

QUAKERS PLANNING NEW WESTERN COLONY

Intention Is to Purchase 4,000 Acres in Colorado and Sell Small Lots to Friends.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

RICHMOND, IND., March 2.—An important movement has been started among the members of the Friends Society, and those of Pennsylvania are prominently identified with it. It is that of purchasing 4,000 acres of land in Colorado and establishing thereon a colony. The land in prospect is in the eastern portion of the state and is subject to irrigation. The scheme is not based on any utopian or communistic ideas. A committee will simply purchase the land and stand sponsor for the plan to give people of small means and good moral character an opportunity to establish a comfortable home.

The plan is to cut the 4,000 acres up into farms of 40 acres each. Purchasers of these 40-acre farms are to be permitted to cut them up into smaller tracts if they desire. The land including the water franchise and rent will probably be put on the market to colonists at $40 an acre or $1,400 a tract and the terms of purchase will be such that any worthy frugal person will be able to acquire a home. It is thought that the entire 4,000 acres will be immediately taken up by members of the church in different states, and that it will be only a few months before the colony will number from 5,000 to 10,000 people.

CORPORATION SATISFIED.

United States Fireproofing Company Will Retain William Weaver As Manager of All Plants.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(Special.)—It is announced at the New York offices of the United States Fireproofing Corporation that William Weaver has been retained as manager of all the corporation's plants.

Mr. Weaver is regarded as one of the most expert clay manufacturers in the country. He formerly was treasurer of the H. B. Camp Company of Akron, later he held a similar place with the United States Clay Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh and for the past year he has been manager of the National Fire Proofing Company. The change is regarded in the trade as evidence that the United States Fireproofing Company is preparing for a vigorous trade campaign against its rivals.

WEATHER CHANGES IN MANHATTAN

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, March 2.

Talk about quick changes of the weather! Last Sunday there was more than a foot of snow over everything in New York, and it looked as if the severest wintry conditions would continue for a month at least, without a break. This morning the church parade in Fifth avenue, under a beautiful blue sky and tinted by golden sunshine, was as gas as on Easter day itself. This weather may not last, so every one took advantage of it today. New York smiled in the sunshine, and every one that could get out of the house was abroad to enjoy the springlike conditions, forgetting the direful winter that made of the month of February a slushy and pneumonic memory.

Lugubrious predictions of rain, wind and even snow are not wanting, but Father Knickerbocker this morning listened to them with perfect equanimity. He was having a good time temporarily, at least, and when he lifted his voice in church in praise of the Giver of all blessings, he did it with unwonted heartiness, feeling that it would be base ingratitude to do less. There is regret that Prince Henry is not here to see what a fine Sunday in New York is like. His impression of this city must be rather dreary, so far as the weather is concerned, for he has seen nothing but slush and snow here since he landed. It is only hoped that the sunshine and dry streets may last until he gets back, although that is a great deal to hope for in this changeable part of the country. The churches last Sunday were very poorly attended. Today all the pastors had the satisfaction of preaching to congregations as large as any that have sat under them since last summer. It was eminently a churchgoing morning. This evening the streets are full of promenaders, and it might be a spring Sunday evening judging by the crowds that move in two great streams north and west in Fifth avenue and Broadway. Particularly Broadway. The famous old thoroughfare looks well on a pleasant Sunday evening, and most people like to be there when they sally forth for a walk. So Broadway is having its spring opening tonight, and thinks no more of last week's blizzard than if it had never been.

Storms on the Atlantic.

The great Atlantic steamship lines are not to be disheartened by bad weather, no matter how terrifying the tales that are brought in from the open sea by each incoming vessel. The Campania sailed yesterday on her regular trip to Liverpool, all spick-and-span, and with a large passenger list. The only one from Pittsburgh was Mr. J. M. Carnahan. Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Brady and Miss Flora Brady of Washington, Pa., were also among the passengers.

Popular in New York.

The second concert of the season of the Pittsburgh orchestra will be given in Carnegie hall on Tuesday night. These concerts are musical events in New York, and there is no longer a question about the size of the audiences. They are always immense. The program for the New York concert is about the same as that of the Pittsburgh entertainment the other night, with Luigi Von Kunits and Emil Fischer, bass.

Killing a Telegraph Cable.

The unprecedented trouble with electric wires at this time brings up many stories bearing on the subject which are telegraphers' history. "No wires anywhere" was the report last night, and a group of half a hundred telegraph operators in the New York Herald building gathered in The Pittsburgh Gazette bureau and swapped yarns. One of the anecdotes was of a break that happened in Bleecker street in the underground conduit, which was caused by a peculiar happening. When a lot of wires went cold all at once, there was excitement at the main office downtown, and the galvonometer was set to work hastily. This ingenious instrument told where the trouble was, and away went a party of linemen to the corner of Bleecker and Elm streets. There they found a scared Irish laborer, sitting by the side of a trench, and wondering whether any of his bones were broken. He had been digging in the hole, and had come across a mysterious substance in the mud that his pick would not dislodge. He had picked and picked over a space of three or four feet, more determined every minute to get the thing out, when there was a spouting forth of blue flame that he declared afterward was a hundred feet long, and he scrambled out of the hole as if a certain individual was at his heels—and who he believed actually was there. He had dug his pick into the cable, and at the last stroke had "touched bottom." He stopped all kinds of important communication with that one stroke, and had done more damage than his wages could have paid for in a year. The piece of cable, with the marks of the laborer's pick, is one of the curiosities carefully preserved in the main office of the telegraph company to this day.

Marconi Was Modest.

Marconi visited some of the newspaper offices here last night and some one cruelly excited the correspondents by telling them that the inventor would send all their news to their respective papers from Pittsburgh to San Francisco by wireless telegraph. Marconi smiled when this was suggested. He did not say he could do it, but it was obvious that he did not carry his apparatus in his hat and the correspondents had to make the best of good wishes expressed by him. He was interested in the news that wires were down all over the eastern and middle states, but was too modest to declare that he could obviate all difficulties by his system. He may have thought it, however, especially in view of the additional successes he had just achieved in sending signals more than 2,000 miles under adverse conditions.

Prince Henry Is Not Forgotten.

Although Prince Henry is far from New York there are flags, American and German, all over this city. Some papers have been suggesting that as the prince is no longer a novelty he cannot expect to be the center of so much fuss as he saw here at first. But that sort of observation is not borne out by the facts. The disposition to make a great deal of the prince when he returns is as marked as ever and there is no doubt that when he gets back to New York he will be greeted as uproariously as ever he was. Herr Conreid of the Irving Place theater has not given up hope of entertaining the prince with an entertainment in German, in spite of the direful miscarrying of his original plan. It will be remembered that Conreid had all arrangements made for a gala performance on the Saturday night that Prince Henry was due to arrive at this port. The ship was behind time and Conreid was left lamenting. Now, if he can only get the prince into his pretty theater on the night before he sails for home he will be happy. He is waiting to hear from the prince.

Dynamite for Derelicts.

The cruiser Cincinnati has gone to sea with a lot of dynamite aboard. She left Tomkinsville yesterday. Her errand is to blow up every derelict she can find in the North Atlantic ocean. The Atlantic is wide, but it is not so large but that floating wrecks are continually menacing passenger ships and others on the line of the ocean ferry. A charge or two of dynamite is the only remedy for the trouble and there is general satisfaction among the officers of the regular liners that the work is to be taken up vigorously.

Patrick Expects to Be Acquitted.

The defense of Albert T. Patrick charged with murdering the old millionaire Rice, will begin early this week. The prosecution has nearly finished its work and now the attorneys for the accused are preparing to come back at Osborne, the assistant district attorney, and his coadjutors. Patrick keeps up his spirits and says he knows he will be acquitted. He listened to the devotional singing in the Tombs today with a critical air of appreciation and seemed to pass a pleasant day. He is used to jail life and it seems to have no terrors for him now. He and Molineux continue to be very chummy.

Coney Island Flooded.

Coney Island would have welcomed a big crowd today but for one thing—the water was so high that the cars could not get through, save at long intervals and with much difficulty. As a general thing, a balmy Sunday like today, early in March will send a tremendous throng to Coney Island. There is not much to be seen in the way of "Bowery" fun; but there is always the sea and never does it look better than early in the year, when it has not quite subsided from its winter paroxysms. But what was the use of wading through three feet of water just to walk along the sands? Then the excise laws were enforced with disgusting strictness. And without beer what is Old Coney, anyhow?

Harbinger of Spring.

Spring is coming. One can see that at the markets. One of the regular spring delicacies that attracts attention in Washington market in these days is sucking pig. The beauties are exhibited in serried lines on the white-covered stands and the information is given forth that the cost of them is from $1 to $2 50 apiece, according to size. These figures may be interesting for comparison with those in the Pittsburgh markets.

"Amen Corner's" Annual Feast.

Plans are making for the annual dinner of the habitues of "Amen Corner." There are few Pittsburghers not aware that this corner is in the lobby of the Fifth Avenue hotel, and is the rendezvous of Republican statesmen who like to talk over politics and other matters in semi-privacy, while keeping an eye on the swiftly moving throng of Broadway. Senator Platt is the presiding genius of "Amen Corner," and the forthcoming dinner is to be given mainly in his honor. It will be held on the 4th of April in the hotel—but not in the "Corner." Senator M. S. Quay is among the distinguished men that have accepted an invitation to be present.

New York Was Thirsty.

This has been the first really "dry" Sunday that New York has had for many years. It is not to be said that there was no liquor sold, because the law allows liquors to be served with meals in bona fide hotels. But the Raines law hotels suffered greatly, and the sawdusty old fiction of the one ham sandwich being enough of a "meal" to warrant the serving of a hundred kegs of beer and a hogshead of whisky was smashed flat. The "wise" ones got their drinks as they wanted them, because that class will always procure what it wants so long as any of their favorite beverages are in New York. There were a few saloonkeepers who said they would keep open in spite of Jerome, but that was regarded only as bluff, and such, in fact, it proved to be. Side doors were tight shut today.

Jerome Is a Busy Man.

Jerome, district attorney, is the best abused public man in New York. He reminds New Yorkers of Theodore Roosevelt, when, as president of the board of police commissioners, he began trying his hand personally in reforming the police force. Mr. Roosevelt did not care what people said about him, any more than he does now, as president of the United States, so long as he believed that he was right. He went around at all kinds of unholy hours of night and morning, watching the doings of unlucky patrolmen, and in a few weeks he was a terror to evildoers. Jerome is about the same now. He spares no one, least of all himself, and wherever there is a fuss there, be sure, you will find the district attorney, in the thick of it. A favorite assertion of his enemies is that he is "thughouse." Jerome laughs a hearty, open-air "Ha, ha!" and lets them talk. He says he does not wish for friends among crooks or law-breakers of any kind, and insists that those are the only persons that try to make him out crazy because he is doing his duty as it appears to him.

An Artist's Opinion of Himself.

George E. Cook, the artist, 35 years of age, who has created a sensation by marrying a wealthy woman of 70, is a modest young man. He must be. Hear him, in an interview at the Fifth Avenue hotel that is given as being authentic. He is quoted as saying: "I know that I am fascinating. Many women have fallen in love with me—positively raved over me. I can't help that, you know. I am young, handsome, rarely magnetic, full of high spirits and animation, and have unbounded ambitions. These qualities, with a splendid reputation as an artist and the culture of a traveled man of the world, make a remarkable combination of attraction." It may be mentioned that the interviewer says Mr. Cook wore a suit of sky-blue pajamas when he received his visitor. GEORGE C. JENKS.

GREAT DAY FOR NEWS.

Yesterday's Sunday Gazette Was a Paper Unrivaled by Any Other This Side of the Alleghanies.

The visit of Prince Henry of Prussia, swollen waters, with their merry and sad accompaniments, recollections of princely visits in other years, the triumph of Coon Hollow and a host of other newsy paragraphs made yesterday's Sunday Gazette one of the most readable things of a March day.

Without a doubt it was the most interesting and instructive Sunday paper issued on this side of the Alleghanies. To begin with, Payne's humorous section was an introduction to the storehouse of good things between the covers. Coon hollow pranks were just the laugh-provoking things one needed on a day like yesterday.

The colored supplement, portraying the grind of industry along the great water fronts of the city, told a story that only Pittsburghers can thoroughly appreciate. These insights into the inner workings of the mill districts are features brought out in The Sunday Gazette to keep before The Gazette's readers the marvelous work being done in our smoky city.

Two Important Items.

Between the covers of this supplement "The Turnpike House," Fergus Hume's weird novel. "The Mystery of Grasiov," and other interesting bits of fiction were found. George Seibel's literary review was a resume of the best production in the literary world.

The news columns "covered" the flood. Prince Henry's visit to Pittsburgh and other notable events with the unerring accuracy peculiar to The Gazette. The "covering" of such important items as the visit of a prince and a flood of unusual proportions in one day show a first-class paper to advantage.

The manner in which The Gazette handled these important items is for the reader to judge. It could only be done by a competent staff of workers, writers and artists. The Gazette has an unrivaled service in this field.

The cable news of The Gazette's correspondents in various parts of the continent was unusually interesting.

Other Interesting Articles.

Such items as the London Times' attitude in English political affairs and ex-Gov. Hogg's refusal to depart from the ways of a plain American citizen made very interesting reading. J. B. Cornely's Parisian letter was also an unusually interesting resume of affairs in the metropolis of France.

Other notable bits of reading were Rene Bache's "Building a Road to Jefferson's Home," a story of a "Westmoreland Hermit," Count Leo Tolstoi's paper on "What is Wrong With Our Civilization?" Frank Moss' "Municipal Misrule—the Way Out," and Col. A. K. McClure's "Random Recollections."

The society, dramatic, religious and fashion pages are a feature of the Sunday paper, always reviewed by the cleverest writers in these peculiar fields.

A unique feature of yesterday's paper was Sam Loyd's puzzles. There is a prize to be given for those who solve the puzzles.

THE MAN UP A TREE

From a High Viewpoint.

The rivers got there with a great many feet.

About once a year the North Side enjoys the distinction of being the Venice of America.

The burgomaster of Chicago has issued a proclamation ordering out the Glad Hand brigade for the Herr Prinz.

Chicago's streets are being cleaned for the prince to see. Chicago's own citizens will be glad to see them, too.

Several days have elapsed since a fresh Tillman broke loose.

Prince Henry of Prussia is now headed for the stein belt.

We tried to show the distinguished visitor everything we had, even to the experience of a train delayed by a freight wreck.

This portion of the vineyard is not suffering from drouth.

It is a great pity that this surplus water could not be impounded until next August.

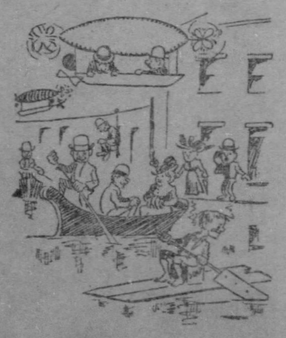
Navigation got too unanimous all of a sudden.

Howard S. Taylor, city prosecutor of Chicago, has refused to meet Prince Henry and talks darkly of despots. This will cast a three-ply gloom all over the German empire.

This milder weather should make the hens willing to arbitrate their grievances.

There was much gathering at the rivers yesterday.

Facilities Lacking.



There are times when a line of efficient airships would be valuable and when gondola street ferries would be useful.

His Difficulty.

"What I can't understand," remarked the comparative stranger, "is this: When there is thirty feet of water in the Allegheny river and thirty feet in the Monongahela river, why isn't there sixty feet in the Ohio river?"

A Pittsburgher tried to enlighten him, but soon gave it up as a difficult task.

American Royalties.

"It almost seems a pity," remarked Mrs. Hammersmith, "that there are no people of title in this country to greet a man like Prince Henry of Prussia when he comes."

"Meaning that we have no kings, grand dukes and articles of that sort on exhibition?" queried Mr. Hammersmith.

"Yes; that's it. Of course, we are republican in our form of government and titles of nobility are unknown among us, but it just seems as though there ought to be some men with high-sounding designations to meet the brother of the kaiser."

"I guess you don't know what you are talking about."

"I guess I do. What do you mean, Charles Hammersmith?"

"Why, Prince Henry has already met a bunch of mouey monarchs and iron and steel kings. Pretty soon he'll be in Chicago and see the beef barons. If he wishes he can meet some baseball magnates. What more can he want. I'd like to know!" POINT BREEZE.

BAR IRON GOES UP.

Western Producers Have Advanced the Price One Dollar Per Ton for Pittsburgh Delivery.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(Special.)—Iron interests here were notified yesterday that the western producers had advanced the price of their bar iron $1 a ton, making the western quotation $1 65 for 100 pounds, Pittsburgh, or 5 cents the 100 pounds over the former basic price. The new price compares with an advance of 10 cents per 100 pounds decided upon Friday by the Eastern Bar Iron association. The eastern association's quotation now is $1 75, Pittsburgh.

Bar iron has been fluctuating between $1 60 and $1 70 at Pittsburgh for some time past, and it cannot be said, therefore, that conditions really have been altered by the advance of basic quotations to meet the prices that have been obtaining in actual transactions.

WHY THE PRINCE'S VISIT PLEASES

Merely a Matter of Sentiment, but That Is Why We Like It—Too Much Cash Register and Too Little Gold Lace.

By S. O. KUHN.

THERE are those who see in Prince Henry's visit to America only a pleasing chimera, a millennial mirage. They say all this fuss is simply sentimental, that there is no substantial backing to it, that it is as evanescent as a soap bubble, and that all it has to recommend it is that the soap is scented.

Well, who cares? It is a joyous contribution to the gaiety of nations. Even if it went no further it has done no harm and has done lots of good. Henry has seen us—some of us—and we have seen Henry—some of him. His ten-minute stop did not permit much more than a superficial examination. But we both enjoyed it. Sentiment? Of course, it was sentimental, but what is there in life that is really worth having that isn't sentimental? Patriotism itself is sentimental. Faith is sentimental. Love is sentimental. And even the cold, hard cash that comes in the pay envelope is sentimental. It represents what it can buy. If money did not purchase sentimental things no one would worship the cold, hard coin. It is not a work of art.

Facts are stubborn things. They are angular, uncomfortable realities. But so are the jail and the workhouse, yet you never hear anyone yelling to stand up for them. And the man who always wants to prove you are wrong is as great a bore as the fellow who appeals to the dictionary.

Imagine proposing to a girl by algebraic demonstration. Fancy her accepting or rejecting the offer by a process of logical deduction or mathematical elimination. Yet every day you have people exalting cold, calm reasoning and dismissing the most interesting topics with a trite and flippant, "Oh, that's a mere matter of sentiment!" Love for the flag is purely sentimental, but they dodge that. Sentiment has done more for religion and morals than all the laws on the statute books.

What Sentiment Is.

You may ask what is sentiment. It cannot be analyzed. It is immaterial, abstract, spiritual. Reason is material, gross and concrete. Still with all the vaunted strength of reason and logic orators have failed to win their cause when the master musician arrayed against them has played upon the emotions of the audience. Emotionalism, you may say, is unreasoning, illogical. It is peculiarly an attribute of femininity. But who shall say that woman's intuitive emotions have not as often been right as man's self-willed and biased reasoning? The wife who arouses her husband at 3 a. m. to tell him she is sure there is a burglar in the basement, because she feels it, may be as much justified as he is for maintaining that she is mistaken, because she generally is, and no burglar has yet been found. It is an even bet.

And while the erudite publicists are proclaiming that Henry's visit is solely a sentimental affair they conveniently forget that even in this case they place a greater value upon sentiment than they do on money itself. Banquets costing $20,000, grand opera at $50,000, special trains and entertainments that run the total even this far over the $100,000 mark, belie their preference for cash to sentiment. Their argument that the German and American eagles will not occupy the same nest is another proof. In these days of democracy you cannot sit down and figure out just what any two nations will do, alliance or no alliance. Chamberlain thought he had Uncle Sam linked to John Bull when he announced that a mutual understanding was preferable to an alliance. Where is that mutual understanding now? England and Germany had another when the kaiser attended Queen Victoria's funeral. It is already forgotten. You might as well try to name the pennant winner next year by studying percentages. As a matter of fact, sentiment, not prearrangement, will decide what each nation will do. It was the sentiment that had been created in this country by long years of Spanish oppression that drove the nation into war when the Maine was blown up.

Has Resulted in Presidential Elections.

Take the list of presidents. The most famous of the last 40 years owed their election to sentiment. Grant, the soldier, was a sentimental nomination. And how much support did William McKinley gain through the admiration of his qualities as soldier, advance agent of prosperity, model son and devoted husband? Even his financial embarrassment when serving as governor of Ohio won him sympathy and sentimental support. And Roosevelt! If there had been no San Juan hill, no rough riders, no picturesque personality? Bryan's support was largely sentimental.

Take your cool, collected statesmen and place them in the balance. Blaine and Sherman are notable examples where lack of sentimental attributes deprived them of the presidency. Had Harrison been less frigid the verdict in 1892 might have been different. And look at Sampson and Schley. Flesh and blood is always better than a statue, the blue sky than gray clouds.

What we need is more poetry in life. There is too much prose, too much statistics, too much thumping on the cash register and too little strumming on the lyre. The civilized world will soon be suffering from anemia. Even the pursuit of literature, the arts and music has degenerated into a chase for dollars. We read books for knowledge, because knowledge means more salary. And the one thing about Stephen Phillips' "Ulysses" that struck the London critics as remarkable was that "here was a poet who made poetry pay." Fancy Homer grinding out stanzas in the box office.

Yet at heart we are all sentimental. We all have hobbies, whether like Croker we run to bull pups, or like Morgan to paintings, or like Hanna to buckwheat cakes, Russell Sage is the exception that proves the rule.

Enters Into All Questions.

As a matter of fact, there is no such thing as reasoning absolutely unbiased by sentiment. Did you ever find yourself impaled on the horns of a dilemma with two things to choose from and leave it to a toss-up? When the coin fell "heads" up did you never have a sneaking regret that it wasn't tails, and by that means suddenly discover that you preferred one thing to the other?

No, your cool, calm, imperturbable, conscienceless, mercenary wretch exists only in the melodramatic novel and the tank tragedy. You never met him in real life. These very fellows who affect to regard Prince Henry's visit with a stoical indifference would be the first to break a leg to shake his hand if a chance offered. Of course, royalty is all fudge, and hereditary aristocracy a confidence game; but there's a distinct sensation in being able to recall that you saw the prince. It's ridiculous, as a matter of mere reasoning, in an American citizen, but it's none the less so. There would be as much pleasure in shaking hands with Oom Paul or Aguinaldo if the properties and other stage accessories were on the same scale. It's largely a matter of gold lace and stage setting—sentiment, and nothing more.

And a prince is so romantic. It's true, of course, that he looks much like other men, but there's a glamour about a throne that is irresistible to a sentimentalist. To be sure, every American is a sovereign and his equal. But there are only a few of us that can live in palaces, ride in special trains and live without work.

And while the German travels in state his royal American colleague, like as not, is perched on top of a freight car to see him go by.

PERSONALS.

C. W. Young, a dealer in hardware and builders' supplies at Juneau, Alaska, is a guest at the Hotel Duquesne. He was formerly a resident of New Castle, Pa., but has been in business in Alaska for the past 17 years. In speaking of the mining interests about Juneau Mr. Young said that Alaska had turned out $22,000,000 worth of gold last year. "The Treadwell mines near Juneau," he said, "are paying good dividends and they are all working. They have 800 stamp mills and each mill crushes four tons to the stamp every 24 hours. The ore is low grade and averages from $3 60 to $3 per ton. It costs to work the ore from $1 15 to $1 25 per ton. At Silver Bow basin, three and one-half miles northeast of Juneau, there is some good placer mining which is owned and operated by Boston capitalists. They have also some quartz up in the basin at Sheep creek, five miles east of Juneau, and at Berner bay, 60 miles from Juneau. They lately made a large sale of some of their property at Berner bay and the company purchasing it will spend $450,000 in putting up stamp mills and developing claims. Living is very cheap at the mines near Juneau. The miners can live for $1 a day. Laborers' wages is $3 a day. Drill men get $4 and blacksmiths and machinists get $5 a day each. Juneau is gradually growing. The government is having plans prepared to replace the old court house, which was destroyed by fire in 1897. The appropriation for the building is $45,000. The climate at Juneau is not so severe as in the Klondike. The thermometer rarely goes below zero, while in the Klondike it goes down to 50 degrees below zero. During December the days are very short. Merchants and others have to turn on the electric light about 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and they burn them in the morning until 9:30 o'clock. There has been a

MILLS RESUME WITH RAPIDITY AFTER FLOOD

The Submerged Plants Will Nearly All Start During Next 24 Hours.

LOSS OF TIME IS GREATEST

Delay in Filling Orders and Cost of Cleaning Up Plants Great Factor. 70,000 Men Lost, On Average, a Day's Pay.

Most of the important mill operations of the Pittsburgh district, which were suspended by the flood, will have resumed in full within 24 hours. Some will take a day or two longer, while others were able to clear the muddy deposits and start last night.

Losses in mill equipments and stocks will be slight. The owners of the mills will, of course, in all cases, be subjected to the expense of cleaning up, and the loss of a day or two in filling contracts, with which all are rushed.

The temporary loss of time to the men will, of course, be a substantial one to them. There was an army of 70,000 men thrown out of their work in the mills and factories, but some of these only lost Sunday, when many mills do not operate, and others were engaged in the work incident to the flood and clearing plants of the muddy effects. The average loss was a day, meaning a wage loss of about $220,000.

Mills Are Starting.

At the great plants of the Carnegie Steel Company, scattered throughout the Pittsburgh district, and which were a prey to the progress of the flood, it was only a matter of a half day loss on Saturday, and some of the mills and furnaces resumed regular operations yesterday evening, the others to follow today and tomorrow. The Lucy and Isabella furnaces, up the Allegheny river, are to blown in again today. The upper and lower union mills will resume today and be in full operation again by tomorrow. Most of the Carnegie furnaces and mills in the Monongahela valley thrown out by the flood will be started again before the day is over, some having resumed operations last night.

Officials of the company said last night that damage sustained will only be through the slight delay and the cost of cleaning up.

Corporation Mills Resume.

Practically all the plants of the Crucible Steel Company of America thrown idle will resume today. These are the Park Steel Company, Howe, Brown & Co., Singer, Nimick & Co., Anderson, DuPuy & Co., La Belle and Crescent plants. President C. H. Halcomb said last night that practically the only loss will be the time and cost of cleaning up; that the valuable mill equipment and stock was kept in the clear, the inroads of the water stopping mostly in the flywheel pits.

This was about the situation with the flooded plants of the American Steel Hoop Company. The Painter plant will resume this morning and the Lindsey & McCutcheon plant by night, with the Clark and the Monessen plants following promptly. It was officially stated that the hoop company had sustained practically no loss to its machinery and stock.

Slight Damage Here.

The Star plant in Pittsburgh and the United States plant at Demmler, of the American Tin Plate Company, will resume today. In these plants forces of men started to clean up the works and dry them out yesterday. Little damage was done.

Jones & Laughlins, Limited, whose many mill and furnace properties in this district were perhaps the least affected of any of the big concerns, will propably have their Soho plate mills in operation by tonight. Ingress of the water to the South Side open hearth works was only temporary and of so little consequence that no suspension was caused. General Manager W. L. Jones said last night that while the water had been high in the Soho mills, little damage was done to the workings and stock and resumption can be effected by tonight. None of the furnaces of the company were banked.

Tube Plants Will Start.

Of the operations of the National Tube Company, which were interrupted by the flood, that at the Pennsylvania Tube Works in Second avenue will probably be the last to resume. This plant was the most affected. It is expected to have it running by tomorrow. The extensive operations at McKeesport were resumed yesterday evening. The Republic works on the South Side will be running as usual today, and the Continental works in Second avenue will probably be running early in the day. Leading officials of the Tube Company said that there had been little damage done, beyond the loss of time and flood incidentals. The furnace operations at McKeesport were not interfered with.

Other Mills Resuming.

The McKees Rocks plants of the Pressed Steel Car Company will probably resume today and the Allegheny plant tomorrow. The Keystone, Shiffler, Pittsburgh and Schultz shops of the American Bridge Company will all probably resume operations today. Shoenberger and Twenty-sixth street mills of the American Steel and Wire Company will hardly resume before tomorrow. The other flooded works of this company will likely be on again today. In all these works little substantial damage was done.

At the Zug & Co. works and the Wayne Iron works and other lower operations along the Allegheny river a satisfactory resumption will probably be delayed till tomorrow.

Plants Are Cleaned Up.

All the mills in the Monongahela valley thrown idle will probably resume operations within the next 24 hours, as the water had already receded sufficiently to allow the work of cleaning up to go on yesterday. At several of the plants, however, it will take most of today to get the necessary repairs made.

The rolling and converting mills at the Edgar Thomson Steel works in Braddock, which were closed, resumed operations last night and four of the seven blast furnaces which had been banked were blown in. The two Carrie furnaces and the other three at the Edgar Thomson plant will probably remain banked until Wednesday, because of a lack of fuel, the railroads being crippled by the flood.

The Marshall-McClintic Manufacturing Company, the Duquesne furnaces and other mills in the Braddock and Homestead region resumed operations.

The Westinghouse plants at Wilmerding and East Pittsburgh are also running again.

Noted Chinese Scholar Arrives.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Prof. Herbert Allen Giles, who occupies the chair of Chinese at Cambridge university, England, was one of the arrivals on the Umbria today. He comes to deliver a course of six lectures on "China and Chinese Civilization" at Columbia university. Prof. Giles spent 27 years in China. He will also lecture in Chicago, by invitation of President Harper of Chicago university.

HUMANE AGENTS WATCHED HORSES

ANIMALS WERE PROTECTED FROM CRUEL USE DURING FLOOD.

Superintendents Porter and Fisher, With Their Assistants, Worked Among the Drivers to Prevent Any Abuses from Overwork or Drives Through Water.

Supt. T. M. Porter of the Western Pennsylvania Humane society, assisted by Agents Bell, Bunton and Kidney, kept a close watch on Saturday from early morning until late at night on the drivers of the wagons carrying passengers through the water at the Sixth street bridge. They wished to see that there was no cruelty, no overloading and no overwork to the horses. Agents Bell and Bunton were stationed on the Pittsburgh side and Agent Kidney at the Federal street end of the bridge.

The vigilance of the society's agents was productive of much good and three horses were ordered out of service as unfit and unable to work. The owners promptly complied when threatened with arrest, although they were loath to leave off reaping the rich harvest.

The field was so rich than men hitched up any old animal to any old rig and started in to transport passengers. It was to this class that the attention of the Humane society agents was particularly directed.

It is possible that when Supt. Porter receives the reports of his agents this morning several informations may be made against some of the drivers for cruelty to animals. Supt. Porter said last night that he considered it an act of cruelty to repeatedly drive an animal through such cold water, especially if the horse should be overheated, as many of the horses were on Saturday, owing to the hard pull and frequent trips. He said it might produce lung trouble and that the animals might founder.

Supt. Valentine Fisher and Agents P. L. Kunz and James H. Rea of the Anti-Cruelty society were also actively engaged protecting the horses from ill-treatment on Saturday and yesterday. Agents Kunz and Rea were stationed at the Federal street end of the Sixth street bridge all day and did not leave until early Sunday morning.

They said that the Allegheny police were also very watchful and had made several drivers take horses back to their stables. The Anti-Cruelty society agents said that they had discovered no flagrant cases of abuse, although they had cautioned several men, and that they would have no informations to make against anyone.

TWO BOYS HOMELESS IN THE FIERCE FLOOD

An Anti-Cruelty Society Agent Discovered a Most Distressing Case of Desertion by Parents.

A peculiarly distressing case of the desertion of two children by their parents, was discovered on Saturday by Agent P. L. Kunz, of the Anti-Cruelty society. It seems that on Friday night a woman living on one of the streets in the flooded district of Allegheny below Robinson street, found two boys, aged 8 and 14 years, crouching up against the side of her house, endeavoring to keep out of the water.

In reply to an inquiry, they said that they were homeless, and that their names were Alex and Thomas Farmer, children of Thomas and Margaret Farmer, who about eight months ago had lived in Forty-fifth street. Their parents, they said, had left them to shift for themselves, and for the past eight months they had been selling papers, running errands and doing whatever they could to keep alive, sleeping, meanwhile, in the empty box cars of the Pittsburgh & Western Railroad, in the yards.

They wore worn suits of blue overalls, and their faces and hands were almost black with soot and dirt. They said that a woman named Davis, living in Robinson street, had been giving them shelter recently, and that when they were found they were attempting to get to her house, which was surrounded by water and inaccessible. As the the flood had driven them from their home in the box cars, they were at a loss to know what to do.

The woman kept them over night, and on Saturday took them to the department of charities. Later in the day, Agent Kunz heard of the case and took the boys to the Newsboys' home, where he will keep them until he makes an attempt to find their mother. The boys are bright little fellows, and give evidence of being decidedly clever.

THEATERS ALL OPEN.

Waters Have Subsided and Play-Houses Will Give the Usual Performances.

The various downtown theaters will be open tonight as usual. With the exception of the Duquesne, all the theaters gave performances Saturday night, although the Alvin and Bijou were severely tried by the water.

The water is being drawn out of the cellars as fast as mechanical means can do so. James K. Hackett's company arrived yesterday morning, and late last night, had the first dress rehearsal of "The Crisis." Mr. Hackett is of the opinion that it will be a success. Manager Thomas Kirk says there is no doubt of it. The first performance of "The Crisis" will be given Thursday night. There is still quite a depth of water in the Bijou and Duquesne theaters, but it will all be forced out by noon today. The usual Monday matinee will be given at the Bijou.

The party will take place in Walther's hall, Chestnut and O'Hara streets, Allegheny, and all members and friends of the order will be cordially welcomed.

Lodgers Were Few—Police Sergeant James Sherry of Allegheny has just completed his annual report for the fiscal year ending February 28 of lodgers kept at the Allegheny police station. The total number is 1,401, of whom 1,353 were men. This is the smallest number of lodgers on record for a year. This fact is attributed to the prosperity of the past year.

Body Identified—The body of Joseph Turenen was identified at the morgue last night. He died at the West Penn hospital at noon on Saturday from compression of the brain. He was employed at the Wabash tunnel at Greentree and was caught in by a fall of rock a week ago and taken to the hospital last Tuesday. He was 35 years old and has a wife in Finland.

Plans for Reunion—The executive committee of the Third ward, Allegheny, school reunion, met last Saturday night and arranged the details for the celebration which is to be held on March 20 at the schoolhouse. No regular program has been prepared, but the committee appointed a number of sub-committees, which will have charge of the details of the event.

Bonds Were Sold—West Homestead borough council held a meeting Saturday night at which the matter of the sale of the bond issue of $58,000 for sewer purposes and $12,000 for the erection of a town hall was finally decided. The bonds were awarded to Baker, Williams & Co. of Pittsburgh for a premium of $750. The money is to be paid by April 1. This week the contract for the construction of the sewers will be awarded.

Disorderly House Raided—At an early hour yesterday morning the Homestead police, under Chief West Noble, raided a resort in Sixth avenue kept by William Price, colored. Beer was selling and in a rear room a piano was going and a disorderly dance hall was being run. Thirty-one men and women, mostly colored, were caught and locked up in the police station. Burgess J. C. Miller fined the whole party yesterday.

Crushed in a Tunnel—Antonio Valentino, 31 years old, of Port Perry, was killed in the tunnel of the Union railroad near that place yesterday morning. He was foreman of a gang of laborers and wanted some stones removed from the excavation. The men refused to enter the tunnel, saying the walls were unsafe. Valentino entered, however, and the walls caved in, crushing him to death. His body was recovered in a few minutes.

Saved in the Nick of Time—No. 7 engine company of Allegheny answered a still alarm of fire on Saturday night at the residence of J. A. Crawford in Carson street. The company arrived in the nick of time and succeeded in saving three children who were frantic with fear on the second floor. A lamp exploded in the parlor and set fire to the furniture. The smoke went up stairs and almost prostrated the children before they were rescued.

Thief Fared Badly—An epidemic of small robberies took place at Riverview Park, McKeesport, early yesterday morning. The home of Frank Lawson, at No. 226 Converse street, was entered through the window and a pocketbook with $2 taken. At the home of Gus Lawrence, No. 426 Federal street, the robbers fared worse, securing only an empty purse. At the last house the limit was reached, when Mrs. Louis Snyder chased the marauders from her cellar. No arrests have been made.

Bought Stolen Coal—Charles H. Brown, a colored barber of Penn avenue, above Twenty-seventh street, was held for court yesterday by Police Magistrate J. V. McMasters, charged with receiving stolen goods. It was alleged that Brown had purchased coal that had been stolen from cars on the Pennsylvania railroad yards by some small boys. Brown admitted he bought one or two wheelbarrow loads from the boys to use in his barber shop and paid 15 cents per load, but did not know it was stolen.

Raids in Lawrenceville—Police Captain C. P. Ford began a crusade yesterday against the Lawrenceville speakeasies, and, with a squad of policemen, made several raids. The largest haul was made at the house of Patrick and Bridget Burns at No. 187½ Thirty-fourth street. The Burns couple, with 18 visitors, were arrested and locked up in No. 5 police station. Bruno Posteraro of No. 4009 Laurel avenue and nine visitors were included in the second raid. Andrew Summerly of Forty-ninth street and Blackberry alley and two visitors, and Kate Kavanaugh of No. 5761 Dresden alley and six visitors, were also arrested and locked up.

Fireman Was Mistaken—Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock a fireman from No. 18 engine company, Cherry alley, while passing by No. 825 Liberty avenue, saw a volume of smoke issuing from the building and quickly hurried back to his engine house and got his company to the scene. Upon their arrival they found the place locked, but gained entrance by breaking a window. Inside they found the occupant of the building busily engaged in making some decoction in which a quantity of rosin was used. It was the smoke from the rosin which alarmed the fireman. The owner was greatly surprised at the sudden entry of the firemen, but as there was no fire they departed.

PAINTERS WILL STRIKE UNLESS WAGES ADVANCE

Mass Meeting of Three Crafts Voted to Go Out on Wednesday.

REFUSED MASTERS' OFFER

The Craftsmen Want $3 60 for an Eight-Hour Day, While Their Employers Have Offered $3 for the Same Working Time.

Organized painters, decorators and paperhangers in mass meeting yesterday afternoon and evening, unanimously voted to strike Wednesday morning against all shops where there wage propositions have not been granted meantime. All need of these crafts, and there are about 3,800 organized in the Pittsburgh district, are out for a uniform minimum wage of $3 60 for eight hours. About 1,100 of these men are said to have voted on various propositions before the meeting yesterday.

Thomas Mitchell, who has retired as business agent of the painters, Alexander Hunter, a former officer and now assistant building inspector in Pittsburgh, Frank E. Smith, who was elected yesterday as business agent for the organization, and Frank Griggs, president of Pittsburgh local No. 6 of the International Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, made speeches urging further conciliatory measures.

Rejected the Proposition.

The majority of the painters present objected to this, saying that the master painters had had sufficient time in which to consider all propositions, and that their employers must take some decided stand. The result was a vote which unanimously rejected the last proposition of the organized master painters of the district, offering $3 for an eight-hour day to the three crafts.

Then the strike order was voted. Representatives of the Building Trades council addressed the meeting and promised the painters all possible support in any action taken.

A meeting of the master painters, regardless of their affiliation with the association, has been called for this afternoon at the builders exchange. At this meeting the situation will be discussed and action taken to either meet or avoid the promised strike of the journeymen.

It was said officially after the meeting yesterday evening that there had been an understanding that something better in the wage line would be granted this spring, and that within the scale year nearly all other building trades have been paid wages above the scale rates.

Among those mentioned were the bricklayers, receiving in instances as high as 75 cents an hour, while the scale provision is for 50 cents; the plumbers, whose scale calls for $3 50, and who are getting $4; electricians, who started the scale year at $2 90 for the day, and who have since been granted $3 60 by agreement and are now demanding $4 a day. Other instances were cited.

Argument was advanced that the proposition of the master painters would on the face of it reduce the wages of paperhangers from $3 20, and the decorators from $3 25, while it would only advance the painters from $2 80 to $3, and make this rate uniform for the three crafts.

Painters Could Not Accept.

It was declared that in the face of increasing living expenses in Pittsburgh painters could not afford to accept $3 a day with uncertain periods of work.

The meeting was the largest ever held by the crafts in the Pittsburgh district. Within the past year several new local unions have been formed, and 11 were represented, some by nearly all members. There were representatives from Braddock, Homestead, East Liberty, Wilkinsburg, Carnegie, Allegheny and Pittsburgh locals.

The meeting continued from 2 o'clock in the afternoon till after 7 in the evening, much of the time being consumed in balloting and counting the results for the new business agent of the organization. Frank E. Smith, recently secretary of the Building Trades council, received a large majority of the vote.

Frank E. Smith said after the meeting that several of the master painters in and out of their association, had offered $3 25, $3 40 and the scale rate demanded, $3 60. He thinks that a considerable number will decide to meet the scale, and their shops will not strike.

While there are over 100 master painters in the district, only about 16 of the larger shops are understood to be members of the Master Painters association. The wage committee of the latter is John Dewar, Al. Rapp, E. R. Cluley, F. McComb and S. B. Mercer. Chairman John Dewar of this committee, has called the mass meeting of master painters for today.

PREPARING FOR MEETINGS.

Evangelistic Committee for State Convention of Christian Endeavor Union Appointed.

The general committee in charge of the state convention of the Christian Endeavor Union, to be held in this city July 3 and 10, has announced the following committee for evangelistic work during the convention: The Revs. W. A. Simmons, D. D., Robert Young, D. D., S. T. Nicholas and James K. Bakewell, William C. LaRoy, John L. Taylor and J. V. Schrock. Dr. Young is chairman.

This committee represents seven distinct denominations of Christian activity, in addition to the Christian Endeavor work. The work of the committee will be to secure suitable places for evangelistic meetings in factories, mills and other places of industry. These meetings will be held at an hour that will not conflict with the progress of material labor.

This will be a feature of the convention entirely separate from the general program now being prepared. The general committee believes much good will accrue from such meetings, and has been seconded in its efforts to make the meetings successful by the committee appointed for the purpose.

BUILDING SITE SELECTED.

Preparations Made for Groupe of Offices Structures in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., March 2.—The site upon which Cleveland's several public buildings will be built has been selected.

The site takes in all the land from the west side of Ontario street to the east side of Bond street, extending from Superior street to Lake. At the head will be placed a new federal building, and at the other end will be the new court house. The other public buildings will be grouped along the sides.

What is now Wood street will be transformed into a boulevard 300 feet wide and for this purpose the legislature will be asked to authorize an appropriation of $1,500,000. The estimated cost of the groupe is $16,000,000.

TWO NEW CHURCHES WERE DEDICATED

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES WERE HELD ON BOTH OCCASIONS.

First Church in the Borough of Hays Opened by the Methodist Episcopal Denomination—Handsome Greenfield Presbyterian Church Also Opened.

Two handsome church edifices were dedicated yesterday morning, the First Methodist Episcopal church in Hays borough and the Greenfield Presbyterian church, Coleman and Alger streets, Greenfield. At the latter dedication there were three services. The morning service was in charge of the Rev. W. W. Farris, formerly pastor of the Hazelwood church, and the afternoon in charge of the pastor, the Rev. E. G. Schibree. The Rev. Dr. Matthew B. Riddle of the Western Theological seminary, preached the dedicatory sermon. The Rev. George M. Johnston of Leetsdale, and the Rev. J. M. Gaston of Hazelwood, also preached.

In the evening the Rev. R. S. Holmes of the Shadyside Presbyterian church preached the sermon. The church is a substantial brick structure with stone trimmings and presents a neat appearance. It will seat 500 persons. The interior is furnished in hardwood and handsomely decorated. The cost of the church was $10,000, and there is only a small debt remaining.

The dedication in Hays was notable in that it gave to that borough its first church. Formerly there had been but a mission, known as the McKee mission. The residents of the borough regard the occasion as a token of good fortune. The dedication service began at 10:30, the Rev. T. N. Boyle preaching the dedicatory sermon.

The pastor, the Rev. James E. Williams, also spoke. The Sunday school services were held in the afternoon as usual, at which the Rev. Boyle and other pastors spoke. At 3 p. m., a platform meeting was held, which was addressed by the Rev. W. C. Weaver, pastor of the Homestead Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. B. M. Lytle, pastor of the Dravosburg Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. G. H. Filun, pastor of the Munhall Methodist Episcopal church and pastors of other denominations of Homestead. At this meeting a history of the congregation was read by John Woolzley of the board of stewarts. The evening sermon was preached by the Rev. C. W. Smith, editor of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

The new structure is built of stone, brick and frame, and cost in the neighborhood of $8,000. It is one of the prettiest Doric structures of the Monongahela valley.

PASTOR PREACHED HIS FIRST SERMON

The Rev. Dr. Danley Took Charge of the McKeesport Presbyterian Church Yesterday.

The Rev. W. S. Danley, D. D., opened his ministry yesterday morning as pastor of the McKeesport Presbyterian church, with an eloquent sermon on "Primitive Christianity." Taking for his text, "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost," he said:

"The early church was a model for our modern day Christianity. It was a church fashioned after God's ideals, one permeated with unselfishness, a church that had but God and the soul in view. It was a church of the living God, established for the redemption of the human race.

"Any church governed by the principles that ruled the apostolic church will succeed. The marks of the early church are known. It was a happy church. Singing was a large part of its service, and in the testimony of the heathen, the early Christians were filled with joy and gladness. It is the duty of all Christians to be happy, and laughing is a virtue. It is a sin to have a long face.

"It was a loving church. The love of the members for one another was evident in their helping one another, in fellowship and in meeting together and breaking bread from house to house. No unkind words were uttered, and there were no heart-aches. Rivalries and hard words were unknown. May it be so in this church.

"It was also a popular church, as it is expressly said they made a profound impression upon the outside world, and won this favor of all people. The world will always respect an unselfish and earnest body. The people think well of Christ, but often have too much reason for looking with suspicion upon his professed follower.

"It is a duty to be popular. Let us seek to command the esteem of the world by our devotion to the cause of Christ. The primitive church was a successful one. Success will always crown the efforts of such a church. In a short time thousands joined the ranks of the disciples, and the church swept triumphantly over the world."

GET READY TO GO, Then Send for the Man Who Will Do the Rest.

Winter tourists to Colorado, California and the Pacific coast, and to Florida and the south will be relieved of considerable attention to detail by getting in touch with J. K. Dillon, district passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines, room 306, Park building, Pittsburgh. He will complete arrangements for the purchase of tickets and reservation of accommodations through to destination. Ban Johnson Criticises Spalding

BAN JOHNSON SLINGS HOT SHOT AT SPALDING

American League President Criticises the National Lead's Methods.

WANTS TWO BIG LEAGUES

Johnson Claims a Half-a-League Will Never Settle the Present Baseball Muddle and the American Will Show No Sympathy.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, ILL., March 2.—President Ban Johnson yesterday took occasion to throw a little hot shot into A. G. Spalding and the latter's pet scheme of a four-club league.

"Spalding, after making broad statements about what he was going to do to harmonize the conflicting interests in baseball, has deliberately left the field to his opponents by his retreat to California just as the campaign should have been growing hotter," said Johnson.

"His methods are certainly hard to explain, particularly when he talks about a four-club league. No four-club organization will ever settle this baseball question, and the American league can be depended upon to show no sympathy with such an organization.

"A 'half-a-league' will do the baseball cause no good, and the American league may be depended upon to do what it can to crush such a plan. I would like to see two big leagues working in harmony, and it was with this in view that I held my conference with Spalding. His methods since these conferences, however, have brought no apparent results and his course seems unexplainable."

The American league schedule as completed was at the local headquarters yesterday, but, of course, will not be announced until it has received the official approval of the league at the coming Detroit meeting.

It is believed that the schedule is arranged on an eight-club basis, and there is practically no chance that the circuit will be enlarged. The schedule meeting will be held at Detroit on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, however, and besides the definite settlement of the rules and schedule matters other interesting developments regarding the New York and other angles may be expected.

The action at this meeting is likely to have an important bearing on the future of the Johnson organization.

GALVIN GROWS MUCH WEAKER

PHYSICIANS HAVE GIVEN UP HOPE AND EXPECT HIS DEATH SOON.

Thousands of Sporting Men Learn of Condition of Once Famous Baseball Player With Much Regret—Many Called to See Him Yesterday.

The condition of Jimmy Galvin, the famous baseball player who is lying at death's door, practically remained unchanged all day yesterday, but looked a little more serious last night. At his home in Lacock street late last night it was announced that he had spent a fairly good day, but had taken suddenly worse toward night and the attending physicians have practically given up all hope of prolonging or saving his life.

When the announcement of Galvin's condition was made exclusively in The Gazette yesterday morning, thousands of sporting men in the two cities read it with much regret. Many came to the house early in the day and made inquiries concerning his condition and not a few visited the bedside of the dying man and offered good cheer and expressed their fondest hopes that the great baseball twirler might recover.

Galvin has been ill for the past six months and has been unable to do any work. Previous to his sickness he was employed as a bartender for Ed. Morris. The once hale, hearty athlete is now but a mere skeleton. He has wasted away frightfully. He is perfectly cognizant of his condition.

His first illness began several months ago with an attack of stomach trouble. Instead of improving he has gradually grown worse and since his first sickness complications have arisen, and it was thought by the attending physicians last night that pneumonia was developing. He takes very little nourishment and can retain it in his stomach but a short time.

At times he is seized with heavy coughing spells and it is thought his lungs are affected. The flood of Saturday had a serious effect on him, and it was feared on Saturday night several times he was breathing his last. The water came into the first story of the Galvin home in Lacock street and all the household goods from the first floor had to be removed to the upper stories.

Galvin is conscious most of the time, but during his deliriums often talks of his former baseball days, and frequently mentions the names of acquaintances of long ago.

A preliminary game will be played by the Manchester and South Side third teams. These are also the fastest aggregations in their class in this vicinity and will doubtless give a pretty exhibition. Lineup for the big game follows:

Wallisee and Metzkes	C. Hayes
Graham	G. Orr
Burry	G. De Muth

INDOOR SKATING RACES.

Much Rivalry Has Been Stirred Up Between Cleveland and Local Skaters.

The old-time rivalry between Pittsburg and Cleveland in athletic events will be renewed this week at Duquesne Garden, when the amateur indoor skating championships will take place, beginning Wednesday evening. Cleveland has four skaters entered in the events, with the possibility of one more facing the starter.

Gust Furtos and Fred Beebe, who are entered in the events, are well known as bicycle riders, having competed in this city at several of the meets. They are two of the gamest men who ever entered an athletic event and the skaters who beat them will certainly have to move over the ice.

In bicycling, baseball, hockey and to a certain extent in football this city has gone out ahead in the contests with the Clevelanders, but in harness racing the latter seem to be a little ahead of the Iron City people. It remains to be seen how the lake frontiers come out in the contests on the steel blades.

TO FIGHT RYAN.

Jack McClelland Will Leave for Chicago Tomorrow Night for Six-Round Bout.

Jack McClelland, the crack featherweight, and his manager, Billy Corcoran, will leave tomorrow night for Chicago where the Pittsburgher meets "Buddy" Ryan next Thursday night in a six-round contest before the Pymride A. C. Ryan is considered the best featherweight fighter in Chicago, having met all the good ones in his class. He has drawn with Benny Yanger, Tommy Sullivan and lost only once in his career to Ollie Olson. McClelland has been working hard and will finish his training tomorrow at Corcoran's. While in Chicago Manager Corcoran will make arrangements with Kid Broad's manager for a fight in Denver the latter part of this month.

FITZ HAS BEGUN HARD TRAINING FOR THE FIGHT

Cornishman Will Keep Gus Ruhlin as His Sparring Partner.

WILL ADOPT NEW IDEAS

Jeffries Has Concluded to Put in Another Week Giving Sparring Exhibitions and Will Not Start Active Training for Some Days.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—Bob Fitzsimmons has begun training hard for his fight with Jim Jeffries, and the glorious weather yesterday gave Fitz a chance to do a long stretch of outdoor work under cheerful conditions. After his walk Fitzsimmons finished his morning's work in the quarters at Bay Twentieth street and Cropsey avenue, Bath Beach, where he has established a full-fledged, up-to-date training camp.

Fitz took a turn at the weight machines, exercised with dumbbells and swung Indian clubs for half an hour. Then he had a session with the punching bag. Champion bag punchers of all degrees must take a back seat when Fitz cuts loose for keeps at the pigskin oval. For 15 minutes the bag beat a tattoo on the platform with Bob punching it in every direction.

Gus Ruhlin, who is assisting Fitz in his training, then appeared on the scene. For 10 minutes Gus and Bob indulged in a wrestling bout, tossing one another round on the mat with the fierceness of Tom Jenkins or Piening. After this they put on the gloves and went at it for 14 rounds. They shook one another up considerably at times, and ended with honors easy. A good rub down put Fitz in excellent condition for a big dinner.

"That was a good work out," said Fitz, "but I am only beginning."

The Cornishman when asked yesterday what he weighed said that he could tip the beam at 165, which is probably true, as he looks to be 15 pounds heavier.

It is Fitz's intention to adopt several new ideas as to training. He will probably keep Ruhlin with him because of the latter's size and weight. Ruhlin is as tall as Jeffries and weighs over 200 pounds.

Fitz thinks that by boxing with him a greater part of the time he will become accustomed to the task of going up against bulk and beef such as he will face when he gets into the ring with the champion. Ruhlin, it will be remembered, took a terrific beating from Fitzsimmons, but not before he had made the freckled boxer spin dizzily from the effects of a couple of great jolts on the jaw.

Jim Jeffries has concluded to put in another week giving sparring exhibitions before beginning to train for his fight with Fitzsimmons. Bob Armstrong, who will assist the champion in his training, has received a letter from Jeffries asking him to report in Los Angeles the last week in March. Jeffries writes he expects to get to California by March 15. On that date the bids for the fight will be opened and it will be known where the men will fight. Jeffries will go to the mountains for two weeks for a good rest, after which he will at once begin active training for the coming bout. Should the fight be awarded to one of the San Francisco clubs the champion will do all his training at Harbin Springs, Cal.

"There is likely to be a strong competition for the bout among fight promoters. Three San Francisco clubs will put in bids and trust to luck to get a permit from the authorities. Los Angeles, Jeffries' home, has already offered $20,000, and Fort Erie, Canada, will be on hand with a bid on March 15.

CORBETT PICKS JEFFRIES.

Believes He Will Win from Fitzsimmons in Their Coming Fight. Bout May Be Long One.

NEW YORK, March 2.—James J. Corbett, the former pugilistic champion of the world, picks Jeffries to win his fight with Fitzsimmons.

He states there is no doubt that Fitz has the winning punch but thinks Jeffries will be clever enough not to allow him to land it. Corbett has fought both men and should be qualified to judge their weak and strong points in battle.

"Of course, Jeffries should be the favorite, being young, strong and the champion but I look to see Fitzsimmons give him a hard fight," said Corbett. "You can rely upon it that when he steps into the ring he will be in the very best possible condition. Fitzsimmons always trains carefully for a fight, and he has won many a fight because he was in better condition than his opponent.

"Fitzsimmons' age does not cut any figure in my opinion. He is the best man to put against Jeffries, because he is certainly a great fighter. His last two fights against Sharkey and Ruhlin, were his best fights. He won both of them because he was in fine condition. In both he was apparently beaten, but came back and won after every one expected to see him beaten."

MAY END IN MURDER.

Serious Cutting Affray Took Place Last Night in Italian Colony.

A cutting affray that may end in a murder took place in the Italian settlement in Second avenue last night. Graziano Michelangeto cut and seriously injured Felepo Normondit at No. 812 Second avenue in a dispute about the payment of some money. Leo Preferia attempted to separate the men and was cut on the right wrist. Both men were removed to the Homeopathic hospital and Graziano Michelangeto was arrested and locked up in No. 2 police station. Charles Gordina and Preferia were also placed under arrest and locked up in the Central police station as witnesses to the brawl.

After he had cut the two men Michelangeto rushed out of the house, but was intercepted by Police Officer McCullough, who placed him under arrest. The pursuit caused a great deal of excitement and a call was sent in to the detective bureau. Detective James Eagan and Police Inspector Fred Wilson answered the summons, but the men had been placed under arrest when they arrived. Normondit's condition is serious and he will probably die.

TWO WALES STRANDED.

Found Their Way Into a Cove at Eastport, Me., and Cannot Regain the Sea.

BOSTON, MASS., March 2.—(Special.)—Two large finback whales found their way into a small cove at Eastport, Me., today. The cove is inclosed by three wooden bridges. At low tide the cove is very shallow, and there is hardly room for the whales to move about. Nearly 1,000 residents have been out to view the monsters, and it is estimated that the larger of the two will measure from 60 to 70 feet in length, and has a fin on its back fully a dozen feet high.

Indians have followed the whales up the coves in their canoes and the best riflemen have tried their skill on the sides of the big fish. There is little danger of their getting out of the cove, and it is only a question of time when hunger will drive them to attempt something different than moving up and down the narrow channel. One of the residents visited the cove last night with a quantity of dynamite, which will be set off in the stream in hopes of blowing up the whales. One of the Indian canoes was capsized yesterday by the fin of one whale striking the side of the boat, and three Indians were soon struggling in the water, but they were quickly rescued by their friends, Pollard.

THE SUSQUEHANNA IS AGAIN RISING

GREATER DAMAGE THREATENED IN EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA.

High Water Has Converted Rivers Into Mammoth Lakes and Driven Thousands of People from Their Homes. Rainfall Continues.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., March 2.—A heavy rainfall and rush of water from its upper tributaries caused the north branch of the Susquehanna river to rise rapidly today. It is thought that there will be another rise of a few inches before the water recedes. Today's high water mark is equal to that of 1865, which has always been known as a record breaker. The water is over the banks of the river from Pittston to Nanticoke and resembles a vast lake. At Westmoor, Firewood and Riverside nearly all the residents vacated their houses.

All the streets in west Pittston are under several feet of water. Two hundred families living in the lowlands in the town of Plymouth had to leave their houses hastily this afternoon. The body of Mrs. Rowland, who died this afternoon, had to be removed from the premises on the boat, as there was danger of the house being carried away.

SUNBURY, PA., March 2.—A 13-foot flood in the Susquehanna river at this place threatens the town with serious damage. Backwater has flooded the lower or central portion of the town to a depth of from four to six feet, and the residents were tonight forced to seek shelter on the high lands, leaving their household effects to the mercy of the water. The river is still rising, and is within a few inches of overflowing the bank.

SCRANTON, PA., March 2.—Incessant rain all day caused the Lackawanna to begin to rise again at noon and in five hours it had increased its depth 30 inches.

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—The Schuylkill river is again within its banks and close to its normal condition tonight. The work of cleaning up was begun during last night and today the railroads which skirt the shores of the river resumed operation. The first train out of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's city depot left this morning for the west.

The destruction wrought by the storm was so great that many industrial establishments along the banks will be unable to resume work for several days. Quite a number of buildings used for manufacturing purposes had their foundations weakened and machinery clogged with mud.

BELLEFONTE, PA., March 2.—One boy drowned and fully $100,000 damage is the result of the flood which visited Bellefonte and Center county. The drowned was a lad named Remey of Pleasant Gap, who was plunged into a deep pool of water by a cave-in. Railroad and county bridges were swept away. The borough water works were flooded and for 15 hours the town was without water or electric light.

VERDICT OF MURDER IN A CASE OF SUICIDE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, March 2.—The jury in the case of Dr. Orville S. Burnett, charged with the murder of Mrs. Charlotte S. Nichol of Nashville, Tenn., returned a verdict of guilty and recommended that Burnett be sent to the penitentiary for 15 years. A new trial will be asked for. The verdict was a surprise, as Judge Baker's instructions were considered favorable to the defendant.

The case was a most unusual one. Burnett, who is a young dentist, was charged with being accessory before and after the death of Mrs. Nichol, even though it was admitted that Mrs. Nichol committed suicide. The state endeavored to establish that Burnett and Mrs. Nichol agreed to commit suicide together, and that the man weakened, allowing the woman to go to her death alone. The defense disputed that there had been any agreement and asserted that Mrs. Nichol took her life while Burnett was lying intoxicated at her side.

THE THREE RIVERS.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., March 2.—River at 6 p. m., 47 feet; rising at the rate of an inch an hour. The government weather forecaster says the river will rise to 55 feet. Cloudy, light snow, colder. The current is very swift at this point and all towboats have to double trip through the bridges. The Relief helped the Fred Wilson and the Iron Age to get past the bridges. The winds were very high and this had something to do with the difficulties of passing here. The Levi J. Workum arrived with the biggest cargo which she ever had since she was built. She had aboard 145 tons of freight, among which was 25,000 feet of hickory lumber and 46 hogshead of tobacco. She will lay up here until the waters go down, because there is no opportunity to handle freight at the present stage of the river.

LOUISVILLE—River rising; canal, 16 feet; falls, 13.8 feet; foot of locks, 40 feet. Business quiet. Weather cloudy, with snow. The city of Cincinnati left for Cincinnati at 9 a. m. The City of Pittsburgh went up this morning. The Alice Brown and tow arrived from below. The Brown, Cruiser, Defender and Exporter went to Pittsburgh with empties.

OIL CITY—River 15.1 feet and falling. Weather cloudy and colder.

Flood Conditions in Virginia.

RICHMOND, VA., March 2.—The James river is rising slowly here, but it is safe to predict that there will be no serious freshet. The water has been slowly falling since morning at Columbia and Scottsville, the test points, and there is no heavy volume above them. Railroad officials report conditions over the state greatly improved.

FLOOD QUICKLY FOLLOWS FIRE AT PATERSON

A Raging Torrent Rushing Through the City's Streets Causes Heavy Damage.

ONE RESCUER DROWNED

Two Buildings and One Bridge Have Already Collapsed and the Spruce Street Raceway Is Threatening Even Graver Trouble.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PATERSON, N. J., March 2.—This city, so recently swept by fire, is now overwhelmed by flood. Three weeks ago the greater part of its business section was burned out and today the quarter occupied by the houses of the poorer class is inundated. Hundreds of families have been made homeless by the overflow of the Passaic river and the country for miles around the city is under water.

So far but one death has been reported. The great peril now is that the Spruce street raceway may overflow, in which event a great loss of property in the manufacturing districts is sure to ensue. The raceway supplies water power for most of the mills along the water front.

Ready to Use Dynamite.

At this point authorities have placed expert engineers who are instructed to touch off a blast of dynamite in a cliff about 70 feet below the Spruce street bridge, which will open a new channel for the immense volume of water held there, and, by diverting it to the bed of the river in a new direction, the authorities hope to save a great deal of valuable property. At 5 o'clock this afternoon the water in the raceway was within three inches of the danger point, but four hours later it was reported that there was a recession of from 4 to 5 inches.

The fire of three weeks ago while causing damage to property to the extent of nearly $8,000,000 did not create as much suffering and widespread desolation as the flood of today.

Large Section Inundated.

The district for a mile along the river front from Spruce street hill to Straight street and two blocks north and five blocks south of the river, nearly half a mile in width, is covered with water, which, in many instances, reaches to the second story of the dwellings. In this district are situated the Rogers locomotive works and several silk mills and dye works. In the immediate vicinity fully 600 families have been driven from their tenements. Of these unfortunates several hundred were taken from their houses in boats and barges amid scenes of much excitement.

Acting Mayor in Charge.

In the absence of Mayor John Hinchcliff, who is now in Cuba recuperating from the strain of the recent fire, Thomas J. Brogan, president of the board of aldermen, is acting mayor and with the mayor's secretary, William L. Dill, is doing his utmost to relieve all those who need assistance.

They tried to reach Gov. Murphy today, but failed to locate him. The acting mayor then took upon himself to open the Fifth regiment armory as a temporary residence for the homeless families, more than a hundred of whom are housed there tonight. Several wagonloads of blankets, clothing and provisions arrived at the armory from all quarters of the city, the most prominent of the donors being Mrs. Hobart, the widow of the late vice president.

Brave Helper Was Drowned.

In the work of rescue, one of the most earnest toilers lost his life. This was Henry Richards, a carpenter, 40 years old, who lived on Franklin street. After making several successful trips, on each of which he brought three or four persons from the neighborhood of Kearns Bros.' dye works, his boat was upset and he was swept away in the waters, which were rushing with the force of a millrace. He clung to the branch of a tree for nearly half an hour, but, in spite of many attempts to reach him, he finally disappeared in the muddy waters.

There was a lack of boats to cope with the emergency and the Newark people sent a wagon load, a dozen boats in all, which arrived in good time to give excellent service.

Fire Adds to the Terror.

The cry of fire was heard about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and it looked as if the elements were combining to destroy the city. The fire broke out in Oates' drug store at the corner of Hamilton avenue and Main street. The firemen, many of whom were helping to remove the people from the deluged district, jumped to their posts and were soon hard at work fighting the flames. There was a brisk wind blowing, but the blaze was confined to the drug store building, which was burned out. The loss was estimated at $5,000. During the three hours the firemen were working another alarm was turned in, but the blaze was insignificant.

Two Buildings Collapsed.

On Hamilton avenue, near the river, the foundations of two new buildings were undermined by the flood and the structures collapsed and were swept away in the stream. The Arch street bridge collapsed in the afternoon, the abutments on both shores being swept away. All the other bridges are completely submerged, cutting off communication between the two sections of the city. The boilers and engine rooms of several of the big mills are 10 feet under water. Many of the mills are said to be covered by flood insurance. So far the mills are believed to be safe and the main loss will be caused by the enforced cessation of work until the waters recede.

SMALLPOX IN HOMESTEAD.

Residents of the Borough Are Much Excited Over the Discovery of Four Cases.

Residents of Homestead are greatly wrought up over the discovery of four cases of smallpox of which they just became aware yesterday. The board of health of that borough was notified yesterday by the Pittsburgh authorities that Charles Fink had been sent to the pest house in this city suffering with the disease. He boarded with Mrs. C. R. Jones, at McClure street and Sixth avenue, Homestead, and that house was quarantined yesterday after a meeting of the board of health. Eight boarders are in the house.

The second case is that of Randolph Hill, also colored. Yesterday afternoon Dr. Mark Baldwin, the borough physician, was standing in front of his office, when Hill approached. His face was covered with blotches and when Dr. Baldwin inquired what was the trouble he said he felt sick. Baldwin found him to be suffering with a virulent case of smallpox. He boarded with James Hillman, at Eighth avenue and Ann stret, in the very heart of the town. The police were notified and kept the house under guard until all were examined. Hill was sent to the Homestead pest house and the house is still under quarantine.

On examining the occupants of the house William Burns, another boarder, was discovered to be suffering with the disease, or rather just recovering. He was also sent to the pest house. James Taylor, another colored man boarding in Dixon street, was found to be suffering with the disease. He was sent to the pest house and six boarders in the Dixon street house were quarantined.

TAX BOOKS HAVE BEEN COMPLETED

ASSESSORS WILL SUBMIT THEM TO TREASURERS THIS MORNING.

Collections for the Year 1902 May Be Started Immediately—Fast Work Necessary to Get Transcriptions Finished Within the Appointed Time.

When the city treasurer's office is opened this morning the department of assessors will send the tax books for the thirty-eight wards of the city, and the collection of taxes for 1902 can be commenced at once. It took hard work to get these books ready on time and it was only done by working the assessor's force extra hours both day and night and finally by working all day and evening yesterday.

The assessors kept the books open for transfers, in order to accommodate property owners, later this year than ever before. The books were not closed until February 19, leaving but nine working days and one of those a holiday, in which to write up the duplicates with the tax computations. Little regard was paid to hours, the clerks being kept at work as long as possible every day. Yesterday a start was made early in the morning and at 10:30 o'clock last night the work was finished.

The taxes by wards are as follows:

Tillman's Denial.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The Times will say tomorrow: Senator Tillman of South Carolina, who was in the city last (Sunday) night, ridiculed the idea that President Roosevelt would invite danger in the event of his going to Charleston. He declared there was no truth in the statement that he had called on Senator Thomas C. Platt on Saturday and advised him to warn the president not to go to South Carolina. Senator Tillman said: "I am satisfied he would be treated with the utmost courtesy."

JURY'S VERDICT CONDEMNED BY CONGREGATION

Members of Union Baptist Church Say Justice Has Been Outraged.

STAND BY THEIR PASTOR

Resolutions Were Passed Expressing Confidence in the Rev. J. M. Thomas, Accused of Breach of Promise by Sarah E. McCloy.

The Rev. J. M. Thomas, pastor of the Union Baptist church, South Side, who figured in a sensational breach of promise suit in the local courts and against whom a verdict was given, has at least the bliss of knowing that his congregation sympathize with him. Every person in the congregation old enough to understand the case believes that he is entirely innocent.

After the regular service yesterday morning a congregational meeting was held. Mr. Thomas' side of the story was heard. He denied Mrs. McCloy's allegations and branded them as "false and without any foundation whatever."

The congregation then requested the pastor to withdraw, and the following resolutions were adopted by a unanimous vote:

Whereas, During the last week there came to trial the case of Sarah E. McCloy against J. M. Thomas, our beloved pastor, for breach of promise of marriage, in which the jury saw fit to bring a verdict against the defendant:

Therefore, Be it resolved, We, the members of the Union Baptist church in regular meeting assembled herewith publicly state we most positively do not concur in the verdict as rendered; and herewith reiterate our profound conviction of his innocence of the charges made against him, and most emphatically express our undiminished confidence in his Christian manhood and purity of character.

And, whereas, We feel that justice has been outraged first and foremost in the pulpit and in opposition to the clearly and forcibly expressed convictions of the venerable judge, who for 35 years has been presiding over our courts; be it

Resolved, That we hereby indorse the foregoing statement as a simple act of justice to our pastor, beloved and true, and assure him of our sympathy, prayers and pledge ourselves to most loyally stand by and support him in this his sore trial, with whatever assistance, financial or otherwise, may be necessary.

By order of the church.

CHEAPSIDE SEEN FROM AN OMNIBUS A LONDON FEATURE

Scene of John Gilpin's Famous Ride Is Familiar to Everybody.

THERE'S DANGER IN DELAY

Ballots Sent Late Were Detained by Floods and Washouts — Teachers May Lose Many Votes by Waiting Too Long.

The tourist in London should never fail to see Cheapside from the top of a 'bus. It is a great thoroughfare and famous for its shops, not to say bargain days, for it is aptly named. In "John Gilpin's Ride" we are told:

"Smack went the whip, round went the wheels,
Never were folks so glad;
The stones did rattle underneath
As if Cheapside were mad."

Well, the stones rattle underneath a thousand wheels on Cheapside now, with a volume of sound vastly greater than Gilpin made. Turning in from Newgate are the general postoffice on the right, the telegraph and money order offices on the left. At the junction of Cheapside, Newgate and Aldersgate streets, Paternoster row and St. Paul's churchyard, there is a statue of Sir Robert Peel. Farther along are Friday street and Bread street. In the latter Milton was born, and there also stood the "Mermaid Tavern," where Shakespeare, Ben Johnson, Fletcher and Sir Walter Raleigh were wont to meet.

Famous Bow Bells.

On the right is Sir Christopher Wren's masterpiece, St. Mary-le-Bow, more familiarly known as Bow church, and who does not know of "Bow Bells?" They are ten in number and are said to have called Dick Whittington from his retreat to resume the lord mayorship for the third time. To be born within sound of this chime is to be "Cockney born."

At No. 71 Cheapside, Keats lived while writing many of his sonnets, and Tom Hood, author of the "Song of the Shirt," was born at No. 31, where his father carried on the business of scrivener. On the left is Grocer's hall, where the business of the Bank of England was first carried on for a number of years, and beyond that Cheapside ends in front of the Mansion house, official residence of the lord mayor, with its wooden statues of Gog and Magog.

The teachers who win in the voting contest for the tour of Europe offered through the liberality of The Pittsburgh Gazette and The Chronicle Telegraph will see London at its best, and, of course, view it from the top of an omnibus.

Rules of Voting Contest.

Ballots must be filled out with full name of teacher, school where employed, town and county; these of each series must be sent in before midnight of the 15th and last day of each month. The party will be composed of 25 teachers; 12 from Pittsburgh and Allegheny; six, Allegheny county outside the cities; 7 from outside of Allegheny county. All expenses will be borne by The Pittsburgh Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph and each member of the party will receive $50 in cash. The tour will occupy more than six weeks and cover the most interesting portions of England, Scotland, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland and France. Contest closes May 31. Ballot is printed on second page each issue and attention is directed to conditions printed thereon.

CROWDS ATTENDED LEMARE'S RECITAL

New City Organist Was Enthusiastically Received—Few People Visited Other Attractions.

Although the weather yesterday was fairly pleasant there were few visitors at the parks. In both the art gallery and museum the attendance was very slim and the majority of those who were present were strangers. At the conservatory there was the usual attendance, but as there are very few flowers in bloom yet it is not much of an attraction. The repairs and overhauling of the tropical house have been completed and the new wall bedding is very beautiful.

Edwin H. Lemare.

The organ recital by Edwin H. Lemare, the new city organist, was one of very patnbic interest and value. It comprised seven numbers, all of which were enthusiastically received by an audience which filled the seating capacity of the music hall. The curiosity of the program was an overture in C major, sometimes called the "Trumpet Overture," said to be one of the posthumous works of Mendlesohn. It was given with great effect and showed that Mr. Lemare has the touch of a master.

The Easter bloom at the conservatory is coming along slowly. A few days of sunshine now will be worth a week of heat and will hasten the plants. Easter coming two weeks earlier this year than usual, will, of course, have an effect on the display, but it will no doubt be beautiful beyond measure. Superintendent William Falconer, who is in Mexico, is expected home some time during next week. He will bring with him for the conservatory a lot of Mexican cactus and other native plants of that country.

At the Highland zoo there were a few visitors. The animals are all in good condition, and were very lively yesterday. The monkeys are looking forward to the advent of spring and Superintendent Treton, who is an expert in the monkey language, said that he had heard these curious natives of African forests discussing when the spring solstice would occur. The three baby lions are rapidly developing, and give promise of being as large and strong as their mother.

WOMEN TO COMPETE AT THE DOG SHOW

MANY FINE CANINES TO BE ENTERED BY PITTSBURGHERS.

Millionaires of Animal World Are the Pets of Society Leaders of the City. Some Prize Winners Will Try for Additional Honors.

Thousands of dollars are spent by Pittsburgh women on household pets, tiny toy dogs of high degree. The longer the line of ancestry and the higher the pedigree the greater the cost of the pets. Luxuries are provided for their comfort and delight. They are the millionaires of the dog world, whose every movement is carefully guarded by their doting owners.

Fashion in the dog world at present is in favor of the little chic, snappy, dark-haired Pomeranians, of which there are several very valuable ones in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Joseph B. Vandergrift of South Highland avenue has one of the little creatures which has captured almost every prize worth taking in its class since its debut scarcely two seasons ago. It is valued far above $500 and was bred at the Stedman kennels in Shadyside. Mrs. Vandergrift has another little Pomeranian which is a close second to the prize winner. Mrs. Frederick S. Stedman has a number of popular household pets, the Pomeranian being her special favorite in the dog world.

New Bulldogs.

A fancy dog which today is very popular in a number of Pittsburgh homes is the French bulldog. Far from handsome, but with a style distinctly their own which makes all the difference in the world between the ordinary and the extraordinary dog, the French bulldogs are rated very high in a commercial sense, their value representing small fortunes. Mrs. Thomas M. McKee of Ridge avenue, Allegheny, has two of these heavy-faced and pert-eared animals which are among the most valuable of their breed.

Equally valuable with the French bulldog and with the balance entirely in its favor as to good looks is the English setter of which there are several in this city owned by women. Mrs. Charles Gibbs Carter owns two of these setters, their beautiful silken coats, their fine erect carriage and their high degree of intelligence marking them among the finest of their kind in Pittsburgh. One thousand dollars is often asked for an English setter and Barton Tory, the well-known prize winner, cost more than that in England. Charles Gibbs Carter also owns a number of beautiful Gordon setters, now among the most fashionable of sporting dogs.

Prize Winners Entered.

Mrs. John R. Moorhead, Jr., in Ridge avenue, Allegheny, has a playful little fox terrier that belongs to a line of prize winners. Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., is the owner of a very frisky little Boston terrier. The Boston terrier is one of the most fashionable dogs of the day and consequently changes owners only at a high figure.

Some of these Pittsburgh peers in the dog world will exhibit in Old City hall this week at the annual bench show given by the Duquesne Kennel club. Among other entries made by women will be the first exhibition in this city of a kennel of whippets owned by Mrs. James L. Kernochan of Hempstead, L. I. Mrs. Kernochan will also bring her Irish terriers, which are famous representatives of their class. Mrs. Richard Harding Davis has entered her bull terriers this year; Mrs. Jack Frazier of Bay Shaw, L. I., comes to Pittsburgh with her Airedale and Scotch terriers and Mrs. Reginald F. Mayhew of New York will exhibit her famous prize winning fox terrier, "Hands Up," that last year defeated "Ge-Bang," valued at $3,000, and having a life insurance of $1,500.

BRYAN ARRIVES TODAY.

Comes to Pittsburgh to Lecture for Kingsley House Benefit.

William Jennings Bryan will arrive in Pittsburgh this morning. He will be met at the Monongahela house by a number of the local Democratic politicians, but his trip to Pittsburgh at this time is not a political one. Mr. Bryan will lecture tonight in Allegheny Carnegie music hall for the benefit of Kingsley house, the event being arranged under the auspices of the Pittsburgh branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae. His subject will be "A Conquering Nation."

Although Mr. Bryan has passed through the city several times, he has not stopped in Pittsburgh for any length of time since the fall of 1896, when he spoke in the Grand opera house during the presidential campaign of that year. This will be his first appearance on the lecture platform in either Pittsburgh or Allegheny. He has been making a tour of the eastern part of the country and after the lecture tonight will leave for the west.

WAYNE COUNTY IS AGAINST J. P. ELKIN

INSTRUCTS ITS DELEGATES TO SUPPORT L. A. WATRES.

Auditor General Hardenbergh, While Personally Friendly to the Attorney General, Will Obey the Expressed Desire of His Constituents.

By CHESTER D. POTTER,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., March 2.—Wayne county has instructed its delegates to support former Lieut. Gov. L. A. Watres for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

In discussing this action yesterday with Philadelphia friends Auditor General Hardenbergh, whose home is in Wayne county, said: "While it is true that in the past I have felt very friendly to Attorney General John P. Elkin and desired him to receive the nomination for governor, it is also true that the sentiment in my county is very pronounced in favor of Col. Watres. Wayne's delegates have been elected and instructed to support the former lieutenant governor and they will fulfill these instructions in the coming state convention. Personally I feel most friendly toward Elkin and would like to see him succeed Gov. Stone, but one must not ignore the wishes of his constituency. Wayne county is for Watres to a finish."

It is reported here that State Treasurer James Barnett will in the near future assume a position similar to that of Auditor General Hardenbergh; that while he will not pronounce for Mr. Watres, he "will favor a candidate upon whom all the leaders can unite."

Senator Flinn, who has been at Atlantic City, left for home tonight.

DELAWARE RIVER SWOLLEN.

Trenton Is Partially Flooded and Pennsylvania Trains on Amboy Division Are Abandoned.

TRENTON, N. J., March 2.—The Delaware river reached its greatest height here this afternoon, being 14 feet above normal level. Very little damage is being done by the rise, so far as the actual destruction of property is concerned. Fair street in Trenton and Mill street in Morrisville, which are along the river edge, are overflowed at their lowest point and some 25 families are obliged to use boats to get to and from their homes. The print mill of Golding Sons Company is the only manufacturing plant in Trenton seriously affected.

The tracks of the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania railroad, between Bordentown and Trenton, are under water and the operation of the road has been suspended. There is no train service between Bordentown and Florence.

THE RECORDER EXPECTED BACK THIS MORNING

COULD NOT EFFECT TRUCE

Attempt to Make Peace With Victors in February Fight Was Not Successful—Senator Flinn Sent Congratulations to Bigelow.

A friend of Recorder J. O. Brown yesterday received a message from him saying that he would probably be home today or tomorrow at the latest. The telegram was sent from New York and declared that the reports that the recorder had gone to Florida to meet Senator Quay were unfounded.

It was also said yesterday that the recorder failed in his mission east to urge upon state leaders the necessity of dropping Attorney General Elkin and nominating another candidate for governor. The recorder's plea was that it would be unwise, in the face of the recent revolt in Pittsburgh, to nominate a candidate in any degree identified with Gov. Stone or the latter's administration.

Do Not Fear Defeat.

The recorder has informed his friends at home that the state leaders still believe that Elkin can be elected with the help of Philadelphia, which, they reason, is not affected by the political upheaval in Allegheny county.

State Insurance Commissioner Durham and other Stone-Elkin leaders persist in taking the view that the recent municipal contest in Pittsburgh was merely a local affair and does not signify any particular antipathy to the Stone machine in other portions of the state. The advices received from the recorder say that the state politicians are not considering the question of the possibility of Elkin's election as much as they are doubting the wisdom of nominating and electing a candidate who will assist in the election of Gov. Stone to the United States senate. It is recognized that if Elkin is elected he is bound to keep faith with Stone and use the power of the machine to secure Stone's election to the senate.

Failed to Make a Deal.

The "organization" politicians admit that Recorder Brown has failed utterly in his efforts to make a deal with the anti-machine forces in Allegheny county.

They say there is nothing left for the machine but to continue the fight to preserve its existence and to nominate the county slate agreed upon months ago.

The fact has become known to many that Senator Flinn, on the day after the February election, when he fully realized the extent of the Citizens victory, sent a message by a mutual friend to Thomas S. Bigelow, congratulating him on the overwhelming character of the victory that had been attained. Mr. Bigelow, it is said, received the message courteously, but made no response.

William Jennings Bryan will spend today in Pittsburgh. Col. Bryan lectures tonight on the "The Conquering Nation" in the Carnegie music hall, Allegheny, for the benefit of the Kingsley house. He will arrive here this morning and will be the guest of Col. J. M. Guffey during his stay. A number of politicians and prominent citizens will meet the late Democratic presidential nominee at Mr. Guffey's office.

Col. Bryan has been in Western Pennsylvania on a lecturing tour for nearly a week past. He still retains his power of drawing the masses as evidenced by the crowds which have greeted him at every point.

Despair is often the creature of a spirit drowned in care. To rise superior to it, physical strength is an important factor, and physical strength can be restored with Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge.
